VOL. 32 NO. 14 APRIL 4, 2011 NO CHARGE
 14 WING • ESCADRE 14 GREENWOOD, NS
 www.auroranewspaper.com

Corporal Andrew Tobin guilds the CP-140 Aurora, A/C 106 into place after it landed at Canadian Forces Station Alert for the first time in history during blizzard-like conditions on the 23rd of March, 2011.

Canadian Forces Station (CFS) Alert was first settled in 1950 as part of the Joint Arctic Weather System. It is the northern most permanently inhabited point in the world and was named after a British ship, the HMS Alert. Today, CFS Alert plays an important role in establishing Canadian sovereignty in the north.

Aurora Makes Historic Landing in Alert

By: David Elias

For the first time, a CP-140 Aurora has landed in the northernmost permanently inhabited place in the world. Less than a thousand kilometres from the North Pole, Aurora 140106 from 14 Wing Greenwood touched down on the frozen gravel runway at Canadian Forces Station (CFS) Alert around 11:30 local time on March 23, 2011.

"CFS Alert is an airfield we've flown over for decades in the Aurora, but it's a place we've never landed," said pilot Major (Maj) Al Harvey who, along with his crew, flew the historic mission. "When we landed, you couldn't tell that it wasn't a paved runway because it felt just like concrete."

Upon landing, the crew visited briefly with the station's Commanding Officer and staff, made a few checks, and then took to the skies once again.

Major Harvey suggested that Alert's potential as an operating location will allow the Canadian Forces (CF) to use the North better.

"The Arctic is taking on greater importance for Canada's sovereignty," he said. "If you can't occupy it, you can't own it. Based on the preparation and the planning we conducted prior to the attempt, things couldn't have gone much better."

The unpaved airfield at CFS Alert has recently welcomed new airframes such as the C-17 Globemaster which is designed to handle rougher landing strips. The Aurora, on the other hand, was designed primarily to roll on pavement. It sits higher and has equipment and antennae that may be vulnerable to damage from rocks or debris.

In Greek mythology, Aurora is the Greek goddess who restored Orion's eyesight, and also the Aurora Borealis are the "northern lights" that are prominent over northern Canada and the Arctic Ocean.

"The CP-140 landings in both Resolute Bay and Alert are historic events, made possible by stellar work by Maj Al Harvey and his crew, as well as outstanding support from the staff at CFS Alert, 1 Cdn Air Division, CP-140 Weapons Systems Management, the Aerospace Engineering Test Establishment, 14 Wing Operations, Maritime Patrol & Evaluation Unit, 404 Squadron, 14 Software Engineering Squadron (SES) and from Buffalo Airways," said Colonel William Seymour, 14 Wing Commander. "All in all, a truly outstanding team effort."

Crews practiced the landing a number of times in a simulator. The recently acquired category D flight simulator is of the same standard as those used by commercial airlines to train pilots. The full motion, full colour simulator was programmed with landing scenarios for both Resolute Bay and Alert thanks to 404 Squadron and 14 Wing SES. Aside from barren white landscapes, simulations included slippery runways conditions. Unpaved airstrips can limit a plane's grip on the ground, which increases the danger from cross winds, so weather conditions play a crucial role.

"The right conditions are necessary," said Major Coleman Spence who coordinates Long Range Patrol, Force Generation at 1 Canadian Air Division. "There may be a time in the future when our Auroras will be tasked to land in a rugged location, and we need to know how to do it right."

Like most CF members involved with this Arctic mission, Major Spence was confident that it would be successful.

"Our experts with the Aerospace Engineering Test Establishment didn't see this as a risk for the Aurora because it is currently winter in Alert which means the airstrip is frozen solid," said Major Spence. "Landing there in the summer will be the real test because the gravel will be loose and will present more risk."

First delivered to the Air Force in the early 1980s, Canada's current fleet of 18 Auroras are in the process of being upgraded to extend their operational life while enhancing their sensor and avionics systems. When these improvements are complete, the Aurora is expected to have some of the most sophisticated radar, surveillance and mapping systems available.

Originally designed for anti-submarine warfare (ASW), the Aurora can detect and destroy the latest generation of stealth submarines. It conducts other operations such as searching out illegal fishing, immigration, drug trafficking and polluting along the coastline. With its long range, the CP-140 regularly patrols with vigilance for violations to Canada's territorial sovereignty above and below the ocean's surface.

The CP-140 is also equipped with air-droppable survival pods which can be used in search and rescue (SAR) operations. During the Red River Flood of 1997, two Auroras flew missions over flood-ravaged southern Manitoba providing operation assistance.

30 March 2011

OP MOBILE – “Operate as One” in Action. Last week, the Long Range Patrol (LRP) fleet deployed two CP-140s, air, maintenance crews, and support personnel from both 14 Wing and 19 Wing Comox. The deployment went from a staff check to 48 hours notice to move (NTM) to 24 NTM to reality very quickly. The call to launch came at 0035 hrs on Thursday, 24 March and the first aircraft was in the air less than 12 hours later. The second aircraft followed that evening. Getting the crews ready and deployed in such a short time required long hours on the part of many Wing personnel – from the maintainers at 14

Air Maintenance Squadron, many of whom worked 14 hour shifts to get the aircraft ready, to the Wing Logistics staff who prepared loads of aircraft parts and material for transport to Sicily via C-17 and C-130J, to our medical, dental, Administration Support and Readiness Training teams who quickly checked and cleared a number of personnel to ensure they were ready for deployment, to the crews from 405 and 407 Sqn who pulled folks in from March break to make things happen. Your collective performance was outstanding.

It has been a very busy month and OP MOBILE is just one of the big things all of you pulled off. At the beginning of March - after a long hiatus - the Wing hosted the O'Brien Competition, a readiness evaluation that pitted the Air Expeditionary Unit (AEU) air and maintenance crews from 407 Sqn and 405 Sqn/14 AMS against each other. The Competition, which involved ASW and Over Land ISR flights, a simulator mission, exams, torpedo loading and maintenance events, required a lot of dedicated work on the part of 404 Squadron, Wing Operations, 14 Software Engineering Squadron, the competing Units and many others to put together. The O'Brien Trophy was won by the 14 Wing team from 405 Sqn and 14 AMS. The fastest attack trophy was won by 407 Sqn and 14 AMS took honours in the torpedo loading and maintenance events. You'll see more details on O'Brien in an upcoming issue of The Aurora Newspaper.

As if OP MOBILE and O'Brien weren't enough... a crew led by Major Al Harvey landed an Aurora on the frozen gravel runway at Resolute Bay, Nunavut and on the ice covered runway at CFS Alert

– the first time that a CP-140 has landed in either location. Making this event happen was the result of leadership and hard work by personnel from 1 Canadian Air Division Headquarters, the CP-140 Weapon System Manager, the Aerospace Engineering and Test Establishment, Maj Harvey and his crew, Wing Ops, 14 AMS, Maritime Proving and Evaluation Unit, 404 Sqn and 14 SES and others. These landings serve to further demonstrate the ability of the CF to operate in the north and will provide significant operational advantages for the LRP fleet.

We are extremely proud of your accomplishments. Stand up and take a bow 14 Wing. You deserve it.

Before long Charlie finds he is privy to all sorts of secrets and scandals freely discussed in front of him by the other visitors. These include Southern Belle Catherine Simms (Amanda Woodcock) and the Reverend David Lee (Peter Trites) who has a dark underside to whom she is engaged. Catherine's younger brother Ellard (Joe Johnson) is a 'slow young man' who tries to teach Charlie English. Owen Musser (Hal Jessom) The County Property Inspector plans to oust the property owner Betty Meeks (Chantal Murphy) and convert the lodge into a meeting place for his own ends.

Officer

Problem presented... solution offered...skills put to work...problem resolved. If only all problems could be so easily rectified. This was an opportunity to prove just that. The 14 Air Maintenance Squadron (AMS) motto “Dedicated, Driven, Ready” was put to the test this fall when asked if they could fill a gap in nation supply procurement. Some Canadian Forces aircraft use or will soon have on board Emergency Personal oxygen Systems (EPOS). The EPOS is designed for individual passengers and crew to put on in case of smoke or fumes in the cabin. Similar principle to the masks you would see demonstrated on a civilian air carrier but having individual units for each person on board.

Where military aircraft are multi purposed these portable systems were the best option to have. In order to have the EPOS, they need to be protected in special carry on containers until needed.

Here is the problem: There were no more of these containers available any where. None in the supply system, nobody produces them, and a similar item could not be found. 14 AMS Aircraft Structures (ACS) shop was asked whether they could produce carrier containers for the EPOS.

Solution: Within a very quick turn around time, 14 AMS ACS using an example from another squadron and limited product specification was ready to produce the EPOS containers. Everyone agreed, not only could 14 AMS do it, but they could do it well.

Skills: Patterning began and the men and women of 14 AMS ACS went to work to produce 30.

Problem resolved: Ready for issue and input into the supply system, these 30 containers will be split between the CP140 Aurora and C117 Globemaster. These are the first two aircraft, apparently with more to come.

The ability of 14 AMS has not gone unnoticed.

Of course, when you do good work, more people want it. Another order has been received for 12 more containers. Talented and skilled CF members working hard for both 14 Wing and the Air Force. Well Done to 14 AMS. Dedicated, Driven, Ready, & ready for more.

Exercise Proud Manta: Part Deux

(Image submitted)

By: Lieutenant Maxine Kapralik

Two weeks ago readers learned about EXERCISE PROUD MANTA, NATO's largest recurring Anti-Submarine Warfare exercise for P-3 Orion (CP140 Aurora) flight operations. Not only did the Exercise provide an invaluable training opportunity for the aircrew of 405 Squadron (Sqn), but also for technicians from 14 Air Maintenance Squadron (AMS), 14 Wing Supply, and 407 Sqn in Comox, BC.

Three maintenance crews and one supply technician worked round the clock to generate serviceable flying assets for the missions. This was no small feat as the technicians encountered many show-stopping snags on both aircraft sent over to Sicily for the exercise. Captain Maxime Leclerc and Warrant Officer Paul Goulding, the Maintenance Flight Command Team, provided exceptional leadership throughout this challenging time, working tirelessly to pave the way for solutions that enabled the crews to restore aircraft serviceability.

For some technicians, this was their first deployment. These individuals gained a vast amount of knowledge in a very short period of time as a result of working alongside more experienced technicians to rectify those numerous snags. Both 14 AMS and 407 Sqn technicians worked alongside each other in the crews, affording both Sqn's the opportunity to determine best maintenance practices where slight procedural differences were evident.

Fortunately, it wasn't all work - though it may have seemed that way! All three crews paid their respects to the Canadian Soldiers who gave their lives in the Sicily Campaign of 1943, buried in the War Cemetery at Agira. Some of the crews even managed to visit historical sites and experience the gracious hospitality and delicious food offered at Sicilian restaurants. The photo was taken at the Valley of the Temples in Agrigento, the largest archaeological site in the Mediterranean Area.

Overall, the exercise was a resounding success as the two aircrews from 405 Sqn were able to fly seven missions each and conduct required crew qualifications and upgrades. This achievement would not have been possible but for the phenomenal work and ingenious problem solving skills of the technicians working tirelessly around the clock. Bravo Zulu!

World Pond Hockey Championships

By: Corporal Karen Lindsay

Last month we took part in the World Pond Hockey Championships 10-13 February which took place in the small town of Plaster Rock, NB. I was one of four members of the Women's Air Force team: Captain (Capt) Heather Smith, Aerospace Engineer from 19

Wing Comox, Capt Dawn Macauley, Cormorant Pilot, 413 Squadron (Sqn), Corporal (Cpl) Karen Lindsay, Aviation Systems Technician (AVN), 14 Air Maintenance Squadron (AMS) and myself Cpl Lindsay Doyle, Resource Management Support (RMS) Clerk, Wing Orderly Room (WOR) Head Quarters (HQ) all from 14 Wing Greenwood.

This was the 10th Anniversary of the Pond Hockey Championships. It has grown to a total of 120 teams, representing every province in Canada, 35 U.S.A. states and a total of 15 countries from around the globe including Puerto Rico, Denmark, and Singapore! There were media personnel from television, radio and newspapers present to cover the event, including CTV.

The tournament was held on Roulston Lake right in Plaster Rock. There were 20 different rectangular ice surfaces shovelled off, so all 20 games were happening simultaneously.

The teams participating in the tournament ranged from beginners, who were just there to have fun, to teams of men who had all played at the university level and higher; some teams were there raising awareness and money for charities such as breast cancer by handing out pink ribbons and were dressed all in pink. We took part in a charity game against the "Pink team" to raise money for the charity. The 2011 John Chadwick Award Recipient (The oldest participant in the Pond Hockey tournament) was our very own Jerry Meade, from Greenwood NS!

Our jerseys replicated the authentic baby blue RCAF jerseys, and were a huge hit. Everyone was very interested to discover that we were all in the military, and many questions followed about what our jobs entailed.

The Air Force Women's Team won all four round robin games, and ended up first overall for points after tallying up 117 goals for, and only 10 against. This included the big rivalry game against the other military women's team, the Army Girls. They consisted of 5 Canadian Forces (CF) members posted to Gagetown, Halifax and Ottawa. The Air Force girls came out on top with a score of 20-2!

The town of Plaster Rock was very much involved in hosting the championships, working at the lake, housing teams, and volunteering for the shuttle services provided to all participants. Our team and the Army Women's team took some time between our games to visit the local elementary school to talk to grades 1, 2 and 3 students. We talked to them about our careers in the military, and how we all met and became friends through playing hockey. The children had many questions for us, and enjoyed all the swag military pens/foam pucks/stickers we had to give them.

During the playoff round on Sunday, the Air Force Women were victorious in the semi finals, however were defeated by the returning champions the Hilltop Bud Lights from Fredericton, NB. The final score was 10-6.

Overall it was an amazing four days of playing 4-on-4 hockey on an outdoor lake, and meeting many new people from all over the world who share our love of the sport. Our team is definitely planning on returning again next year, and coming away with the World Cup!

girl’s healthy active living week. Lawrencetown invited three other schools in the Annapolis County to participate in a 4km snowshoe trail on the North Mountain in Middleton. The students challenged themselves achieving their own personal goal time to snowshoe up a 600ft hillside and around a beautiful snow covered loop. All LEC students took part in different roles, such as safety marshals to guide the athletes through the trails. The event was a huge success with sixteen participants from Bridgetown Regional High School, Annapolis West Education Centre, Middleton Regional High School, and Lawrencetown Education Centre. At the finish line BBQed hot dogs and chili made the minus five weather a tad bit warmer that day. We would like to thank all the supporters for attending, and for all the positive energy they had. A huge thanks to the Annapolis County Club 400 and the Annapolis Valley Regional School Board for helping make this event happen. Students and staff at LEC want to make sure this is an annual event that will take place for many years to come. As a school we believe being physically active is a huge importance in young growing bodies and promote healthy active living with everything we do.

Valley Residents Become Stars for Big Brothers Big Sisters of the Annapolis Valley

Submitted by: Robin Benedict, Executive Director, Big Brothers Big Sisters of the Annapolis Valley

Big Brothers Big Sisters Bowl for Kids' Sake campaign is the largest of the year. Teams from all over the Annapolis Valley became stars at the "Red Carpet" themed event, helping to raise $22,000 in two days. Without the dedication and spirit of the bowlers and sponsors, it would not be possible to achieve this success.

"I have been part of Big Brothers Big Sisters for 20 years and it still amazes me the great support we get from our community," said BBBS of the Annapolis Valley Board Vice Chair Rob Graves "Seeing the smiles on these kids' faces makes me proud of what Big Brothers Big Sisters of the Annapolis Valley stands for and its focus on investing in our children."

About Big Brothers Big Sisters of the Annapolis Valley

Big Brothers Big Sisters of the Annapolis Valley serves West Hants, Kings and Annapolis County and has been serving children for over 35 years.

The Big Brothers Big Sisters program helps to provide a positive influence in the life of a child when one is needed. Big Brothers Big Sisters programs, which are made possible by Bowl For Kids' Sake funding, have proven instrumental in reducing truancy, bullying, early school leaving, delinquency and substance abuse.

Fun By The Numbers

Here's How It Works: Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Are You Posted Again?

Submitted by: Michelle Thibodeau Wagner, Coordinator of Special Events and Promotions, Greenwood Military Family Resource Centre 765-1491 local 1421 michelle.thibodeau-wagner@forces.gc.ca

Are you dancing for joy or dragging your heels because your military member received a posting message this year? Like many families in Greenwood and throughout the CF, you and your family may be on the 2011 posting list. As military families, we understand its all part and parcel of our chosen way of life but we all handle it differently. Some people will look forward to a posting, it may put them closer to family and friends or the new location may better suit their lifestyle. Some families may be facing a posting with trepidation, or bewilderment. Dundurn? Where is that? How do you spell Saskatchewan? Are you serious?

No matter how we feel about it, in most cases the plans are in place and as military families we must follow along. We're not called the Strength Behind the Uniform for nothing.

Making the transition easier for everyone is all we can do. Here are a few tips. Start off by contacting the Greenwood Military Family Resource Centre (GMFRC). We have information packages on most MFRC's and that could give you an idea on what life is like in your new area. Check out www.familyforce.ca. From there you can access websites from all MFRC's in Canada and as well as those abroad. Making contact with your new MFRC can assist you with lists of schools, doctors, daycares etc. MFRC staff is there to provide information and assistance where they can. If we don't know, we will do our best to lead you in the right direction. It's best to have your ducks in a row before the moving truck hits the road.

Before you leave, if military family members are planning to look for employment at the new location, the GMFRC's

Employment and Education Coordinator can help you spruce up resumes and cover letters so that they are complete upon your arrival. If you want some tips on how to find or what to look for in a childcare provider drop in and see our Child and Youth Coordinator. If you have small children, make use of the affordable rates of our full day casual childcare while you make arrangements and get ready for the move.

Happy trails to all who are leaving, best of luck on your new adventure. Thank you for your contribution to our community. Everyone leaves an impact no matter who they are or how big or small it may be. To those who are arriving, welcome to Greenwood. Drop by the GMFRC (big blue building) to say hello. No matter if you are coming or going, get involved in your community, make new connections, and embrace the change. Every location has something great to offer but we ourselves, make or break the experience. The MFRC family is there to help make the transition easier. Make use of the resources that are put in place just for you, our military families.

CF Recruiting Visit Postponed

Submitted by: Stephanie Townsend, Coordinator of Education & Employment Services, (902) 765-1494 local 1816

In the past the GMFRC has been fortunate to have CF recruiting from Halifax visit us monthly to meet with individuals in the community who have questions or concerns about joining the Canadian Forces. This has proven to be a popular event and the recruiters have reported a high rate of success with candidates from Greenwood. Unfortunately, CF recruiting had to cancel their visit at the GMFRC for the month of April. The session was originally scheduled to take place on the Monday, the 18th of April from 1300 – 1600 hours. For more information on CF recruiting please contact Stephanie at the GMFRC at 765-5611.
