Forty years | 'Little bit of everything, lot of fun'

Sara Keddy,
Managing editor

Max Pennell says he'll see how the summer goes as he enters retirement: so far, judging by a deep tan and 20 rounds of golf in by the end of May, things are going well.

Pennell retired from the Canadian Forces in March after a 40-year career.

"How do you last 40 years in the military?" he asks. "With a few exceptions, I always enjoyed my job."

Pennell is a Newfoundlander. At 17, the military wasn't on his list, but he and three buddies joined up together in March, 1970.

"I lasted the longest."

He had been an Air Cadet

Max Pennell is now putting in lots of time on the golf course. "I always thought, 'Who the hell would play that? What a waste of time.'" He took up the game while posted with golf-mad 434 Squadron 12 years ago, just so he'd "not slow anybody down." S.Keddy for three years, but there is no military background in his family. His objective: a job, and travel out of Newfoundland.

"It was almost a joke when we joined. I picked my trade by how fast you could get in. Three weeks, and I was in as an air weapons technician."

Since then, it's been a "little bit of everything, and a lot of fun stuff." Pennell says he always had good jobs – air shows in the summer, dragging targets around behind a T-33 for the Navy to shoot at, time in the last days of the Argus, then F-18s (working on seven or eight air frames altogether), and close to 10 years in ordinance disposal.

"That was a lot of fun – until the first time it's not training anymore!"

His first real call was here in the Valley, while posted on one of four terms in Greenwood: a high school kid was making a bomb in a back shed, and it went off and injured him.

"The parents had no idea what he was doing. When we got there, there were three more bombs ready!"

Pennell really enjoyed the F-18 time, particularly four years with the planes in Germany. His family loved the international posting, and he thrived in the fast-paced, weapons oriented environment. He accompanied the planes through Gulf War missions, worked with NATO support-

Day at the lake turns into fire duty for 14 Wing firefighters

Sara Keddy,
Managing editor

A day on the lake with buddies from work turned into a professional call to duty for six 14 Wing Greenwood firefighters June 12.

Master Corporal Ron Williams had five Green Crew peers out for the day on his boat for a BBQ and jaunt around Aylesford Lake, including corporals Ryan Muck, Brendan Howe and Troy Windbank; and privates Tim Hebb and Colin Orchard. They also joined an effort to tow a floating dock across the lake to Camp Brigadoon, when a fellow travelling on the dock noticed smoke on a nearby wooded island.

"It looked like it was going pretty good, lots of smoke," Williams says. We knew as firefighters, on a 24 or 25 degree day with lots of wind, you shouldn't be burning brush."

The men dropped off the dock and returned to the island, coming within 30 metres of it – the closest they could get because of the boat's draft.

"We all jumped over and swam in – I'm not going to lie, it was cold," Williams says.

Half the island was on fire, and the men were wearing typical day-on-the-lake clothes: shorts, sandals and T-shirts.

"If you're not a firefighter, that's definitely not advisable to do," Williams cautions.

They kicked in the door to a shed on the island and found tools and buckets. One man returned to the boat to call 911 and get area volunteer fire departments on the road from Kentville and New Minas. He used the boat's GPS to pinpoint where on Aylesford Lake the island was.

"The guys did what they're trained to do: we cut roots, threw dirt and water around and worked the fire," Williams says. The fellows least protected worked the lake-end of a daisy chain, moving water in to the men closest to the fire. It burned to within a couple of feet of the shed, full of gas and propane.

"The guy's camp could have lost everything. We put it out – it was just smouldering by the time the fire departments arrived" an hour-and-a-half later.

The men were beat, Williams says and, after turning the scene over to the fire departments, headed for home.

"You would have no idea how often it happens that we're on a day off and something like that happens," Williams says, describing accidents and medical emergencies he's used his professional training to respond to as one of the first on the scene.

The Department of Natural Resources was also involved in the incident, investigating the cause of the fire and determining it was a controlled burn the weekend before that had not been properly extinguished.

ing ship movements in the region and was a peacekeeper in Italy. He travelled through the South Pacific, Iceland and the Caribbean. He didn't get to Afghanistan, Canada's latest major involvement.

"You train for years, and then you get a chance to prove what you've learned. Everyone wants to do that – and do a good job. What do you want for a challenge? I've made nine moves in 40 years: three years in a job, and I've had enough. The first year is learning, the second year is putting it into effect and the third year is routine. The fourth year – boring.

"I wanted to travel and did a fair bit in my time – if you ask my wife."

He knows most of his trips and postings were of the shorter variety: it's the longer stretches that test a military couple's ability of "do that see saw, and be able to balance.

Day 1 of a Canadian Forces career for Max Pennell, as he joined up in St. John's in 1970.

Submitted

"Your family's got to be able to survive on its own. The downsides are the moves, the housing changes, the pressure on your family when you're away."

For all that, though, Pennell says travel and exposure to the world through the CF has been eye-opening.

"People here may complain about the price of gas. You can shake your head at the range of cultures, religions and ways of life – they're almost unbelievable until you see it. The world is absolutely different."

At the 35-year mark, Pennell was offered a promotion to chief warrant officer, and a move to Cold Lake. He describes it as a tough decision; up until this time, retirement was off in the distance, "whenever I'm not having fun anymore." But with a home, family and friends here in Greenwood, he opted to retire, and then joined the Reserves. He worked with Wing Flight Safety, a good fit with his years of experience in aircrafts of all kinds, in many places and in varying conditions. He's not sad to be leaving the CF now at 60, but says he'd sure rather be staying if working to age 65 was an option.

"I've been very fortunate. I had a good run for 40 years."

Pulling for food

Sara Keddy,
Managing editor

Look for teams determined to make a difference in 14 Wing Greenwood's 3rd Pull the Pumper event June 22.

Greenwood firefighters are spearheading the food bank challenge, which takes place at 11 a.m. in the CANEX parking lot. Fans – and food bank supporters – are welcome to come out and watch the action.

"This is the third year for the event, and there has been lots of interest," says Warrant Officer John Pereira, adding teams have been calling most recently for training tips on what they could be facing on the challenge course.

"They'll be pulling the fire truck first" – 14 Wing's largest, the 46,000-pound combination ladder truck – "then they'll go through the next six events, and whoever finishes first in timing, wins."

There's a mix of old and new challenges this year, including a pike poke, hose rolling, a rope pull, bucket brigade, hose hooking and bunker gear dressing challenge – all done with participants bearing the weight of a firefighter's breathing apparatus. The six-member teams may use all bodies to pull the truck, but will then divvy up responsibilities in the smaller challenges.

Spectators are welcome to cheer on the teams, bring in final donations and enjoy a BBQ.

Pereira credits the support of base teams returning to the event, or just joining in for the first time; community and business partners and base leadership support for the growing success of the event. In year one, 2,000 pounds of food was collected, and about $300; Last year, the 2,000 pounds of food was enhanced with over $800 in cash. Base sections, and the wider community, are encouraged to take up the challenge to do even more this year. All food and cash donations are presented to the Upper Room Food Bank in Kingston, a Feed Nova Scotia partner.

Local vets receive commendation

Fifteen citizens from Atlantic Canada were honoured June 10 for their commitment and dedication to veterans. Two Kingston men were among the recipients.

Steven Blaney, Minister of Veterans Affairs, presented these individuals with the Minister of Veterans Affairs Commendation in Halifax.

Reverend Donald Boudreau is a retired Canadian Forces member and an ordained deacon in the Roman Catholic faith. He volunteers with the veterans at the Soldiers Memorial Hospital Veterans Wing in Middleton. Boudreau drives a handicapped equipped bus to take veterans to medical appointments, luncheons, parades and other local events. He conducts funerals and prayer groups, visits veterans in hospitals and performs Liturgy of the Word Services and many other parish activities. Boudreau also conducts Liturgy of the Word Services at Queen of Heaven Chapel at 14 Wing Greenwood when regular military chaplains are on special assignments.

David Geddes is a retired Canadian Forces firefighter. He is a senior member of the Royal Canadian Legion (RCL) and has served as branch president of the RCL Alvin Foster M.M. Memorial Branch #098, Zone 8 commander and District 'D' commander in the Nova Scotia/ Nunavut Command. He is also an active member of the Veterans Organizations Services Committee. As RCL Branch #098 president, Geddes initiated and completed a program to refurbish the dressers in the Veterans Wing at Soldiers Memorial Hospital in Middleton. He helped organize and spent many hours working on Branch #098's Welcome Home Troops Appreciation Day in 2011 for returning Afghanistan veterans. He volunteers to drive veterans to and from medical appointments, in particular as the driver of a locally-sponsored shuttle bus. Geddes has also constructed ramps for veterans and their widows who experience mobility difficulties.

The commendation includes a bar, which can be worn below official decorations on a recipient's blazer, as well as a lapel pin for civilian wear and a certificate. The commendation is presented to individuals who have contributed to the care and well-being of veterans and to the remembrance of their contributions, sacrifices and achievements. It is intended primarily for veterans, but in some circumstances may also be awarded to non-veterans. Nominations may be submitted at any time and are reviewed annually by an advisory committee. The Perfect Pear Dining Room

The Perfect Pear Dining Room at the Falcourt Inn is a busy place this summer.

Chef Scott Foeller is preparing his new Summer Menu for launch in July. With some lighter, summer fare the menu will feature as much local food as possible. Chef Scott hopes to make his fresh produce purchases at the nearby Farmers' Markets.

The Summer Menu will feature seasonal food inspired by multicultural menus with some vegetarian influences. Signature dishes like the Seafood Medley and the classic Pear Potato will remain front and centre. The Chocolate Pate Pear will be added to the dessert menu at different times.

The popular Two-Can-Dine for $29.99 menu will be changed every two weeks through the summer, each time including a shared appetizer, and a choice of fish, pasta or meat entree.

It is eighteen months since Chef Scott joined the team at Falcourt Inn and during that time he has branded the restaurant The Perfect Pear Dining Room. He is always delighted to greet the returning diners who are helping to grow a loyal customer base.

Falcourt is the central Annapolis Valley's only four star inn, and owner-operators Dianne LeGard and her son Derek oversee a team dedicated to providing the best possible guest experience. Summer of 2012 sees Chef Scott and sous-chef Kimberly Bent busily catering several weddings, and a charity gala in support of Mountain Lea Lodge. On Labour Day Weekend workshop participants will create a lasting labyrinth behind the main building.

Since his youth Chef Scott has been at his happiest when people found joy through his food. More recently, after surviving some serious health challenges, he feels that sharing his zeal for fine food and exquisite flavours is more than a desire: it is his purpose. This belief and passion are evident in every bite of the meals he presents, and he looks forward to sharing his eclectic cuisine with as many clients as the dining room can seat.

Living, winning with fitness | Base recognizes success stories

Sara Keddy,
Managing editor

Al Peppard isn't sure it's his hockey skills – or the fact he can cough up the $50 entry fee – that still gets him the call to play in old-timers' hockey tournaments. But, when the 84-year-old Middleton man laces up his skates, he does it with a winning attitude.

Peppard was the guest speaker at 14 Wing Greenwood's Fitness, Sports and Health Promotion recognition event May 30. As he wrapped up his speech on longevity in sports and maintaining an active, life-long lifestyle, his buddies from the old-timers team – also special guests – called from the back of the room, "We're still waiting for the money!"

The laughter, camaraderie and friendships Peppard says he continues to enjoy in sports are what stands out from his experiences playing, coaching, organizing and watching.

"And, it's very important to associate with young people," he said.

"When I reached 35, I was in the 'junkyard,' it was time to sit back and watch TV. Now, you can play any sport as long as you live, and it's an incentive for you to continue to play as long as you live.

"You don't have to play hard – it's the camaraderie and getting out. You people know all about that."

14 Wing Greenwood sports coordinator Graham White helped organize this 13th annual event, recognizing the base's health promotion programs, coaches and volunteers at all levels: from intersection play to base, regional, national and Conseil International du Sport Militaire (CISM) level. The event also recognized health promotion success stories in weight loss, healthy living and smoking cessation, along with long-time volunteer service by base section representatives who help deliver programs and information to their co-workers. There is also a range of community and business sponsors who support the fitness and health promotion programs at 14 Wing.

Competitive swimmer Second Lieutenant Serena Palmer was a double winner in the fitness awards presentations, named 14 Wing's 2011 female athlete of the year and also official of the year for her efforts in hockey. Palmer was the 2010 Canadian Forces female athlete of the year.

"She's a busy girl – on the international, national and regional stages," said Fred Williams, director of the 14 Wing Greenwood Fitness & Sports Centre.

"This was our largest group this year – female athletes. We have a lot of very talented women athletes."

14 Wing's 2011 male athlete of the year recipient was Major Gilles Couture.

"He does it all – cycling, squash, hockey," said Williams "He's the number one seed in Canadian Forces squash, and maintains a national ranking outside the forces as well."

Lieutenant-Colonel Chris Ouellette represented 14 Wing Commander Colonel Jim Irvine at the event, and had the honour of thanking Peppard for his presentation – and example.

"Here is a man who has made sport and fitness a part of his life, all of his life," Ouellette said.

"We talk about making sports and fitness a part of our own work and home life, and military sports promote the highest standards of sports- and helps us maintain our ability to meet one of the most physically demanding jobs."

Jackson named to N.S. hall of fame

The late Howard Jackson
Submitted

Another star-filled roster of athletes, teams and builders will be inducted to the Nova Scotia Sport Hall of Fame November 3.

Bridgetown's late Howard Jackson will be enshrined as a builder for his long-time service as a volleyball coach and official.

Jackson was still playing volleyball when he decided to become an official in 1970. When he received international level certification in 1983, he was one of only 12 Canadians to hold that accreditation at the time. He went on to officiate in a number of major international competitions, including the World University Games and the Pan American Games. As a member of Volleyball Canada's National Referee Committee, he was a supervisor and evaluator, becoming instrumental in the development of Canadian referees. Over the course of 40 years, Jackson made a significant impact in volleyball as an official, coach and educator at national and local levels as well. He coached at the Canada Games and at Dalhousie and Mount Saint Vincent universities, leading clinics and development camps for many years. Also an accomplished track and field competitor and official, he was inducted as an athlete to the Bridgetown Area Sports Hall of Fame in 2010.

Get wacky with us!

Kim Dixon,
GMFRC Coordinator of child
and youth services

Summer has really just begun, soccer is over, vacation is still three weeks away, and the kids are bored. The heat is becoming oppressive and inside, boredom leads to irritability, whining and fighting. Nothing drives a parent up the wall faster than a whiny, bored kid. We don't always have the time to prepare and supervise elaborate projects. When everyone is tired and bored, parents need something simple and fun for kids to do!

The Greenwood Military Family Resource Centre's Wacky Wednesday summer program has planned theme days perfect for the school-aged child who needs a day out of the house to have fun with other kids their age. Themes include science, cooking, games and crafts. All are developed for the needs of school aged children. For a detailed list of theme days and dates please see the child/ youth section of the GMFRC newsletter or contact the GMFRC for more information. Space is limited, so families are required to pre-register. Contact the GMFRC at 765-5611.

Entrez dans la folie des mercredis avec nous!

Kim Dixon,
Coordonnatrice des services pour enfants, jeunes et adolescents du CRFMG

L'été vient tout juste de commencer, la partie de soccer est terminée, il reste encore trois semaines avant les vacances et les enfants s'ennuient. La chaleur devient accablante et à l'intérieur, l'ennui cède la place à l'irritabilité, au pleurnichage et à la chicane. Rien ne fait plus grimper les parents aux rideaux qu'un enfant qui s'ennuie et pleurniche. Malheureusement, nous ne disposons pas toujours du temps pour préparer et superviser des projets élaborés. Lorsque tous sont fatigués et s'ennuient, les parents doivent trouver une activité simple et amusante pour occuper les enfants!

Dans le cadre du programme estival des mercredis en folie, nous avons planifié des journées thématiques qui sont parfaites pour les enfants d'âge scolaire qui ont besoin de passer une journée à l'extérieur avec des enfants de leur âge. Parmi les thématiques figurent les sciences, la cuisine, les jeux et les ateliers de bricolage. Toutes ces activités sont conçues pour prendre en compte les besoins des enfants d'âge scolaire. Pour obtenir une liste détaillée des journées thématiques et des dates, veuillez consulter le tableau ci-dessous ou communiquez avec le Centre de ressources pour les familles militaires de Greenwood pour obtenir de plus amples renseignements. Puisque le nombre de places est limité, il faut s'inscrire à l'avance. Veuillez communiquer avec le CRFMG au 765-5611.

Fun for all | Community survey IDs recreation needs

Sara Keddy,
Managing editor

Build it, host it, organize it – and they will come.

The 14 Wing Greenwood Community Centre already offers a range of special events, clubs and programs – but what more could it do to meet the needs of the community?

A survey through April answered just that questions, with some of the most extensive data ever collected from military families in the area.

“It’s the first time we’ve ever done an on-line survey,” says community recreation director Jill Jackson. “It worked really well: 284 surveys were done.”

The community needs assessment is part of a national effort by Canadian Forces Personnel and Family Support Services to ensure its dollars support local programs people want. Recent changes to funding agreements means an annual assessment must keep close tabs on programs, and survey results can guide a base commander in setting her priorities.

Jackson says Greenwood has done a good job following the interests of the community in the past, but the latest results from the on-line survey raised some particularly good responses.

“We like to look at our community’s needs every so often, and see how we’re doing with the programs and services we offer – we want to offer what people want to do.”

Good news for Greenwood: survey respondents this time ranked Personnel Support Programs’ success with a four out of five.

“It reaffirms what people think, that we are doing a good job – and we are,” Jackson says. “What we are offering, we want to do more of.”

The survey identified some barriers families find accessing community recreation, including program timing, childcare challenges and finding programs they’re interested in. Jackson says top-three priorities for her centre now include meeting some of those needs with subsidized programs and facility access for children and families, and increasing the range of programs and timings available for adults. Programs for seniors is another opportunity, as the Canadian Forces makes efforts to serve its retired members. Suggestions for upgrades to community facilities should be addressed in infrastructure planning over the next few years. She is also very much aware the Greenwood Community Centre, while a base-oriented facility, serves the local population just as valuably: non-military participants add numbers and registration revenue to keep programs on offer for all, and opening programs to military and non-military participants ensures CF families feel at home while in Greenwood.

“The challenge for us now is to meet the needs of our community but, at the same time, use the resources and staff we do have. If we can find the instructors, or offer a class identified by someone who is interested, we want to do it,” Jackson says. “There’s potential – we can pretty much do anything.”

Du plaisir pour tous | Un sondage auprès de la collectivité fait ressortir les besoins en loisirs

Sara Keddy,
Rédactrice en chef

Si vous le construisez, si vous le tenez, si vous l’organisez – ils viendront.

Le Centre communautaire de la 14^e Escadre Greenwood offre déjà toute une gamme d’événements spéciaux, de clubs et de programmes – mais que pourrait-il faire de plus pour servir les besoins de la collectivité?

Un sondage mené en avril a permis de répondre à cette question même, grâce aux données parmi les plus complètes jamais recueillies auprès des familles militaires de la région.

« C’était la première fois que nous faisons un sondage en ligne », explique la directrice des loisirs communautaires Jill Jackson. « Ça a très bien fonctionné : 284 questionnaires ont été remplis. »

L’évaluation des besoins de la communauté fait partie des efforts nationaux déployés par le Service de soutien au personnel et aux familles des Forces canadiennes afin de voir à ce que ses fonds soutiennent des programmes locaux que les gens veulent. Des changements récents apportés aux ententes de financement font en sorte qu’une évaluation annuelle doit être menée pour suivre de près les programmes, et les résultats d’un sondage peuvent aider un commandant de base à établir ses priorités.

M^{me} Jackson constate que Greenwood s’est bien débrouillé par le passé pour suivre les intérêts de la collectivité, mais les récents résultats du sondage en ligne ont permis de recueillir des réponses particulièrement intéressantes.

« Nous aimons examiner périodiquement les besoins de notre collectivité, et voir comment nous nous en tirons avec les programmes et les services que nous offrons – nous voulons offrir aux gens ce qu’ils veulent. »

Bonne nouvelle pour Greenwood : les personnes qui ont répondu au sondage ont donné au Programmes de soutien du personnel une note de quatre sur cinq.

« Cela vient confirmer ce que les gens pensent, c’est-à-dire que nous faisons un bon travail – et c’est bien le cas », de dire M^{me} Jackson. « Nous voulons accroître encore plus notre offre existante. »

Le sondage fait état de certains obstacles auxquels les familles font face pour accéder aux loisirs communautaires, y compris les horaires des programmes, les questions de garde d’enfants et la tâche de trouver les programmes auxquels elles sont intéressées. M^{me} Jackson indique que les trois grandes priorités de son centre incluent maintenant la satisfaction de ces besoins grâce à des programmes et à un accès aux installations subventionnés pour les enfants et les familles, ainsi qu’un accroissement de la gamme des programmes et des horaires offerts aux adultes. Des programmes pour les aînés sont une autre possibilité, car les Forces canadiennes s’efforcent de plus en plus de servir leurs membres à la retraite. Les améliorations suggérées aux installations communautaires devraient être étudiées dans le cadre de la planification de l’infrastructure au cours des prochaines années. M^{me} Jackson est aussi très bien consciente que le Centre communautaire de Greenwood, qui est axé sur la base, sert aussi tout autant la population locale: les participants non militaires viennent agrandir la clientèle et augmenter les revenus tirés des inscriptions, ce qui permet de continuer d’offrir les programmes au plus grand nombre, et le fait d’ouvrir les programmes aux participants militaires et non militaires aide les familles des FC à se sentir bien chez eux durant leur séjour à Greenwood.

« Le défi pour nous maintenant est de satisfaire les besoins de notre communauté avec les ressources et le personnel que nous avons. Si nous pouvons trouver les instructeurs ou offrir un cours qu’une personne intéressée a mentionnés, nous voulons le faire », de dire M^{me} Jackson. « Le potentiel est là. Nous pouvons faire à peu près n’importe quoi. »

Life after CF a joke for visiting comic

June 23 marks the return of a former 14 Wing Greenwood member – to the stage of the Annapolis Mess. He's hoping for a laugh, taking a turn as an up-and-coming stand-up comic. Doors open at 7:30 p.m., and the show start at 8 p.m.

Eric Payne was a master seaman, once part of 14 Wing's administration branch at wing accommodation. On a motorcycle ride in 2005, he and his passenger were struck in a head-on collision on Brooklyn Street three kilometres from the Kentville hospital. Passenger Kyle Tops suffered multiple breaks to his left leg, but Payne's injuries resulted in an above-knee amputation.

"My family and I were really blessed to have incredible support from 14 Wing and the community at large," Payne says.

Eric Payne

Submitted

He was posted to the HMCS QUEEN CHARLOTTE in 2006, where he completed his 23-year Canadian Forces career. His last year-and-a-half in the CF was busy.

"We had just started the combat mission in Afghanistan and policies were being developed and changed to match the wounded injured and ill at the time," Payne says. He was asked to participate in a number of initiatives, including some input with the Assisting Officers Handbook and the moving policy for disabled Canadian members. He joined a team which traveled to Walter Reed Army Medical Centre to look at the traumatic care American soldiers were receiving, and was present at the launch of Canada's Soldier On Program in 2007. This program was instrumental in giving him the message anything is possible. He regained an active lifestyle, which even he admitted had diminished sometime prior to his own accident. He started to three track ski, then play sledge hockey.

Payne was medically released in December 2007. He and his family have now settled near Charlottetown, and Payne works at Veterans Affairs. He sits on the provincial disability action council and manages the sledge hockey program, featured on CBC's Hockey Day on PEI. He is a presenter for Smart Risk, No Regrets, a program for high school students about harm reduction and the consequences of choice.

In March 2011, Payne made the jump to stand-up comedy, something he always wanted to try. He signed up for the open mic at Yuk Yuks in Halifax, got a few laughs and was told by the host he had a pretty good set. He started writing material and looking for opportunities, and his act caught the eye of industry veteran Darren Frost. Payne was able to tour with him, industry great Kenny Robinson and Kathleen McGee.

Matt Stewart will be joining Payne in Greenwood. A veteran of the Maritime stand-up comedy game, over the past few years Stewart has been climbing the comedy ladder. He was a featured comedian at the 2009 and 2010 Off-Centre Comedy Festivals, and, in 2011, was named Prince Edward Island's "best stand-up act." He has performed with Yuk Yuks, at Joker's Comedy Clubs and as a part of the Charlottetown Festival. He has appeared alongside Peter White, Nick Beaton and Lorne Elliott and continues to gig across Atlantic Canada.

The show will also include Francois Weber, a past performer at Just For Laughs and the Halifax Comedy Fest, to name a few. He can be routinely found at Yuk Yuks comedy clubs across Canada. Weber most recently joined Kenny Robinson, Darren Frost and Payne entertaining the sailors at CFB Halifax's Fleet Club in April.

Get out and Run the Runway!

Start off your Canada Day long weekend, and celebrate the last day of school with your family at 14 Wing Greenwood's fifth Run the Runway event June 29.

Join participants at the Air Movements Unit building at 10:15 a.m. (warm up) for a 10:30 a.m. start, under the direction of Wing Commander Colonel Jim Irvine. Participants will run or walk east on runway 30/12. This year's event is open to all military and defence team members, retired Canadian Forces members and their families.

Run the Runway is part of the wing commander's on-going Wing Wellness Campaign, and part of the wing's commitment to the Canadian Forces' Health and Fitness Strategy. As the event will be held on a Friday, everyone is encouraged to wear red as part of the Support the Troops campaign. Red Support the Troops T-shirts are available for purchase at the Greenwood Military Family Resource Centre or CANEX.

The run will consist of two distances: participants may choose to either run or walk the 2.5 kilometre route or the five kilometre route. There will be post-race refreshments and closing remarks by the wing commander afterwards.

Last year's run had approximately 550 participants, and organizers hope to increase the amount of participation this year. Base units and squadrons are encouraged to get their members – and their families – out to partake in this fun event, a great way to embrace a healthy lifestyle.

See you there!

14 Wing Library | Serving those who read

Judy McCool & Joanne Sealby,
14 Wing Library

June is here, and it's time to think about some good summer reading.

The 14 Wing Greenwood Library has added several new titles. How about discovering more about the LEGO universe? The two book set, "The Lego Book" and "Standing Small," celebrates the fascinating story of LEGO and its much-loved toys and games. Find out all about the cult mini-figures, from the manufacturing of wooden toys to blockbuster video games, and go behind the scenes with fascinating facts about LEGO. There is also a fascinating timeline which highlights key moments in LEGO history. This work is a treasure trove for LEGO fans of all ages.

For any young readers tired of wizards, vampires and Greek gods, there's now a new kid on the young fiction block, one who really does have serious powers: half boy, half lawyer, not since Nancy Drew has a nosy, crime-obsessed kid been so hard to resist. This series by John Grisham for young adults, Theodore Boone, Kid Lawyer, is now in the library.

"The Titanic Remembered" tells the complete history of this magnificent ship, from its conception as the most luxurious vessel in seafaring history to the tragedy of its sinking and its enduring legacy. Included throughout are extracts from first-hand accounts of those who designed, built and sailed on Titanic, as well as those who lost their lives. This luxury, commemorative edition comes with a specially-designed presentation case, an audio CD, 40 beautifully reproduced facsimiles of Titanic memorabilia and a DVD featuring footage of this unsinkable ship.

You will also enjoy "Canada's Argus – The Untold Story". This is a book for serious aviation fans, in particular those with an interest in military aircraft. It tells the story of the Canadian-designed and -built Argus maritime patrol aircraft, a key component of NATO's response to the Soviet submarine threat during most of the Cold War. Between 1958 and 1981, Argus crews flew thousands of hours, many of them out of Greenwood and Summerside. The Argus story is well illustrated and contains photographs throughout. There are also some stunning paintings and profile drawings by aviation artist Rob Arsenault.

Come in to your local library and see the displays of new books, always updated. We have a huge selection of over 40,000 resources - DVDs, audio books on CD and more. The library's on-line patron access can be viewed at <http://libraryworld.com>, log in name 14 Wing Library.

A reminder "Under the Story Tree" story time with Miss Somer wrapped up for the summer June 6.

Could you please check your closets and under the bed for any library books that may need to make their way back home before you are posted?

May 22 and 23, 17 chicks hatched from 30 eggs children at Greenwood's Wee Folk Centre had been incubating. Fun By The Numbers
Here's How It Works: Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

June 17 - June 23

ARIES - Mar 21/Apr 20
Expect to expend a little energy this week to get the job done right, Aries. Leaving it up to others is not the best way to go in this instance. Step up.

TAURUS - Apr 21/May 21
Taurus, focus on the big picture or nothing will get accomplished. It's too easy to get lost in all of the little details. Follow through on the task at hand.

The centerpiece of the Greenwood Military Aviation Museum's Memorial Garden is a lone, bronze statue of a Second World War airman, donated to the museum by the Aircrew Association of Canada and unveiled by then Governor General Adrienne Clarkson in 2002.

Garden's stones tell a story

Gerry Keil & Malcolm Uhlman,
Greenwood Military
Aviation Museum

The commemorative gardens at the Greenwood Military Aviation Museum are found adjacent to the museum's air park.

A beautifully manicured rose garden, with a fish pond, fountain and lovely brick walkways; cairns and monument stones honour Greenwood squadrons and personnel who have paid the ultimate sacrifice; these are brought together by a life-size bronze statue of a Second World War airman at the centre of the garden.

The walkways are lined with more than 400 commemorative stones, remembering individual members, personnel and their spouses serving or who have served at CFB

Greenwood. The stones express by their very existence fellowship and camaraderie, and a dedication to service. The granite stones (seven inches by 14 inches by three inches) are engraved with the name, unit and hometown of the individual honoured.

Many have purchased stones as a unique Father's Day or Christmas gift. The museum is responsible for the stones and their maintenance. Additional stones are continually being added by individuals and families. Further information may be obtained by contacting the museum, (902) 765-1494 ext 5955.

Bridgetown, Paradise recognized

Four outstanding Nova Scotia communities were announced May 17 as the recipients of the 2012 Lieutenant Governor's Community Spirit Awards, including Bridgetown and Area, Annapolis County; and Paradise, Annapolis County. "These communities are outstanding examples of the culture, heritage and unique fabric that make Nova Scotia a wonderful place to live. The collaboration and strength of these four communities is inspiring," said Lieutenant Governor of Nova Scotia J.J. Grant. "I am looking forward to visiting each community this summer."

Former lieutenant governor, Mayann Francis, launched the award program in 2007 to recognize communities that demonstrate engaged and active citizens across many aspects of community life. Including these four winners, 23 communities have been recognized to date.

The lieutenant governor will present the awards at separate celebrations to be held later this year in the four winning communities. The date and nature of the celebration event is up to each winner. Master craftsmen from Nova Scotian Crystal will etch each winning community's story into an original piece of crystal, which will be presented during these celebrations.

For more information about the awards, visit www.communityspiritaward.ca.

Relay effort close to base's heart

14 Wing Greenwood's chapels' team, with members from both Queen of Heaven's Catholic Women's League and St. Mark's Women's Guild, raised $4,325 in relay efforts June 8.

Submitted

14 Wing Greenwood personnel, family members and friends joined the hundreds of people making up Relay for Life teams at the June 8 Middleton event, celebrating its 10th anniversary.

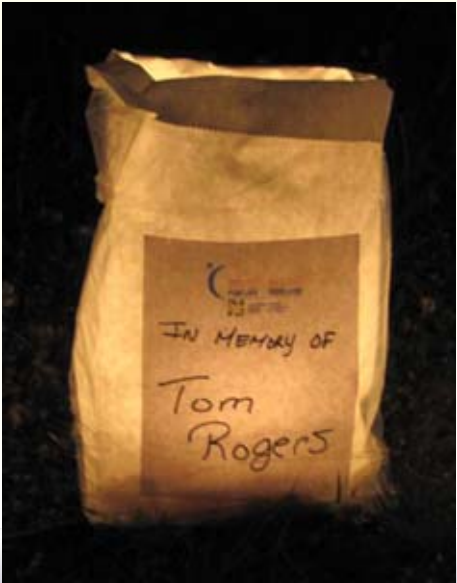

An on-base initiative to support teams as they organized and then fund-raised for cancer research and patient care programs started several months ago, and, along with community-based teams, the Middleton relay raised, together, $195,000. Nova Scotia relays since June 1 have raised $1,333,000.

Coffee parties, raffles, sales, 50/ 50 draws and car washes kept base teams busy, and support was there for their efforts.

14 Wing Greenwood Master Corporal Jeff Carpenter put his feet into his relay effort, counting about 60 kilometres in the eight-hour pedometer challenge that wrapped up around 3 a.m. That's roughly 78,000 steps Carpenter put in in memory of Rich Pilon, a 14 Wing member who died of cancer in April. Carpenter, first in the challenge, captained the base's Wheels, Wings & Wrenches relay team.

Individual luminaries light up with special messages of remembrance, bravery and support.

An uplifting start to the 2012 relay.

Submitted

Members of 413 Squadron's team, the Beacons of Hope – with the search and rescue squadron's motto, "That others may live," as their own - raffled off a limited edition, autographed photo from Carey Price and Maxim Lapierre from the Montreal Canadiens.

In the days ahead of the relay, 14 Wing crews pitched in during site set-up at Rotary Park.

At the relay itself, teams were kept busy – and entertained – from opening ceremonies June 8 to the pancake breakfast underway early June 9. Bands, crazy contests involving arm wrestling, Mr. Potato Heads and pyjamas; zumba and tai chi, and zany laps with crazy underwear and glow sticks added to the fun. On the serious side, signature laps were made to remember cancer victims and survivors, volunteers, caregivers and military personnel.

14 Wing Greenwood Wing Administration Officer Lieutenant-Colonel Heber Gillam helps kick off the relay at opening ceremonies.

Submitted

The Relay for Life's luminary ceremony is always a bright light during the overnight event, as individual candles spell out a message of hope.
