Dogs make their day

Volunteer visits 'gratifying' for St. John dogs, owners

Sara Keddy,
Managing editor

Diane Moore and Bob Geub's dogs have a home away from home.

"They go in and great everyone as if they're their best friend," says Moore.

The couple has been taking their family dogs into Soldiers' Memorial Hospital for 14 years as St. John therapy animals, visiting residents and staff in the transitional and long-term residential units and "brightening their day."

"Bob saw a poster one day, and we contacted St. John about the program," Moore, a sergeant with 14 Wing Greenwood's Education and Training Organization, says. Geub, a sergeant, is 405 Squadron's training coordinator. They had two dogs, chocolate labs Otto and Papillion, who passed the training and testing to become official program members.

"When you're testing a dog, you would have people with walkers and canes and chairs and lots of clutter, pretending to be a residence, and see how they'd do. Any dog that just wants to be touched and talked to, and can just sit and lie down and be content can be a therapy dog."

Otto and Papi put in over 200 hours of visiting time at SMH over the years: both have since passed away, but Moore and Geub have added Shadow and Riley to the "team," and one-year-old Koal is in training. Geub was hoping to have him "in action" over the weekend.

"Taking a dog in just opens things up," Moore says. "We try and go at least once a week, sometimes up to three hours, and the dogs just love it — love it."

They also seem to have a natural affinity for the people they're visiting, the couple feels. Moore remembers visiting a man years ago, who always greeted them in his arm chair. One day, they arrived to

Visible commitment

Sara Keddy,
Managing editor

One of the first things Lieutenant-Colonel David Proteau realized as he arrived at 14 Wing Greenwood last summer was the high level of seriousness backing the base's network of "champions."

Awareness and education campaigns around discrimination, disabilities, women and minorities are led by appointed base leaders, and Proteau took on the mantle of champion for visible minorities along with command duties at 404 Squadron.

"By appointing the responsibilities to the commanding officers of units, you make a statement leadership is on board, and a champion has a captive audience at many opportunities to talk about these issues," Proteau says.

While he attended a Kings County multicultural event in the fall on behalf of the base, African Heritage Month, February, is his first substantial chance to focus on visible minority issues. A proclamation signed by Wing Commander Iain Huddleston will be read at February's wing council meeting and published around the base, and supporting information will be circulated through defence team links here in Greenwood. Proteau understands the challenge and sensitiveness of identifying individual minority representatives as part of base efforts to support and educate everyone, but hopes the base's overall commitment makes a difference.

"I think everyone, no matter who they are, wants the same opportunities, wants to be evaluated just like everyone else and wants to be equal," Proteau says. "I never thought of this as an issue, but we're supposed to be totally transparent in what we do - and we may take it for granted that we are."

Proclamation

AFRICAN HERITAGE MONTH – FEBRUARY 2014

WHEREAS 14 Wing Greenwood is committed to celebrating the cultural heritage of all citizens;

WHEREAS February is recognized internationally as African Heritage Month – a time to recognize and salute the many contributions and ongoing achievements of Black people all over the world;

WHEREAS 2014 marks the 30th year that African Heritage Month has been celebrated in Nova Scotia;

WHEREAS African Heritage Month is an annual recognition of the culture, heritage and progress of African Nova Scotian communities throughout the province; and THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that I, Colonel Iain Huddleston, Wing Commander, do hereby proclaim February 2014 as AFRICAN HERITAGE MONTH at 14 Wing Greenwood.

Dated at Greenwood, Nova Scotia
This 3 day of February 2014

MOIS DU PATRIMOINE AFRICAÎN – FÉVRIER 2014

ATTENDU QUE La 14<sup>e</sup> Escadre Greenwood s'est engagée à célébrer le patrimoine culturel de tous les citoyens;

ATTENDU QUE Le mois de février est reconnu dans le monde comme étant le Mois du patrimoine africain – une période pour reconnaître et saluer les nombreuses contributions à l'humanité, et les réalisations passées et actuelles des peuples noirs du monde entier;

ATTENDU QUE 2014 est la 30<sup>e</sup> année où on célèbre le Mois du patrimoine africain en Nouvelle-Écosse;

ATTENDU QUE Le Mois du patrimoine africain est une célébration annuelle de la culture, du patrimoine et de l'évolution des communautés afro-néo-écossaises de toute la province;

À CES CAUSES, IL EST RÉSOLU QUE je, Colonel Iain Huddleston, commandant de l'Escadre, proclame par les présentes le mois de février 2014 MOIS DU PATRIMOINE AFRICAÎN à la 14<sup>e</sup> Escadre Greenwood.

Fait à Greenwood, en Nouvelle-Écosse

Un engagement visible

Sara Keddy,
rédactrice en chef

L'une des premières choses qui a frappé le lieutenant-colonel David Proteau à son arrivée à l'Escadre Greenwood l'été dernier, c'est le sérieux que l'on accordait au réseau des « champions » de la base.

Des campagnes d'information et de sensibilisation sur la discrimination, les incapacités et les questions touchant les femmes et les minorités sont pilotées par des leaders choisis sur la base. De son côté, Proteau a pris les rênes du dossier des minorités visibles de pair avec ses fonctions de commandement du 404e Escadron.

« En confiant ce genre de responsabilités à des commandants d'unités, vous affirmez que la direction appuie le dossier. Un champion profite par ailleurs d'un auditoire captif et de nombreuses occasions de parler de ces questions », dit Proteau.

Bien qu'il ait participé à une activité multiculturelle dans le comté de Kings à l'automne à titre de représentant de la base, le Mois du patrimoine africain en février sera pour le lieutenant-colonel Proteau la première véritable occasion d'aborder les questions qui touchent les minorités visibles. Une proclamation signée par le commandant de l'Escadre Iain Huddleston sera lue lors de la réunion du conseil de l'Escadre en février et elle sera diffusée dans l'ensemble de la base. De l'information sera également diffusée grâce aux liens de l'équipe de la défense, ici à Greenwood. Proteau comprend qu'il peut être difficile et délicat pour la base d'identifier des représentants de minorités individuelles afin de manifester son appui aux minorités et de sensibiliser toute la population à leurs défis propres, mais il espère que l'engagement global de la base fait une différence.

« Je pense que chaque être humain, quel qu'il soit, veut avoir les mêmes possibilités, veut être évalué comme les autres et veut être traité en égal, dit Proteau. Je n'ai jamais vu cela comme un problème auparavant, mais nous sommes censés faire preuve d'une totale transparence dans tout ce que nous faisons – et peut-être que nous tenons trop pour acquis notre attitude à cet égard. » find him in bed, and "Otto just hopped up so gently, and just laid down beside him. His arm came up and around and you could just see the life come back in his face," Moore says.

They visited another man for years and, when he passed away and his wife moved into the residence, they continued almost as family. Shared chats about sewing projects underway, models under construction at a hobby table, experiences in past work lives, extended families and more "brings back memories and can do wonders for their well-being," Moore says.

"For these people, their daily menus repeat, there's no difference between a Saturday, a Tuesday or a holiday," says Geub. "I definitely think, for these people, the dogs' visits are gratifying and make their day."

There are tough days as well, the couple acknowledges, when someone they've visited many times before is no longer in their accustomed chair or room.

"It's hard, but it's so gratifying," Moore says. "It's just fantastic what a dog will do: petting something, they say, is the best medicine there is."

A little bit of this

Sergeant Trevor Jessome, a member of 14 Construction Engineering Squadron, Bridgewater, didn't get a chance to tie on the Masterchef apron strings January 20, as the Canadian TV show premiered and whittled down 50 top amateur cooks to 25. Thousands of Canadians applied to cook for judges Michael Bonacini, Alvin Leung and Claudio Aprile – and the chance to become Canada's first Masterchef and win $100,000. Jessome made the initial short list and prepared pan grilled boneless leg of lamb in herb crust with ribbons, yellow zucchini, red onion and cherry tomato and kale pesto gnocchi; but it wasn't enough to advance him to the next round in the cook-off.

Prevention, training key to FES' 2013 success

Captain B.G. Paradis, Chief, 14 Wing Fire and Emergency Services

14 Wing Greenwood Fire and Emergency Services was busy through 2013 in all respects, from fire response to life safety.

The section's suppression platoons responded to 279 calls for assistance and, thankfully, while there was some property loss, no one was seriously injured. National Defence and the Royal Canadian Air Force experience less fires per capita due mostly to mandatory training of all department personnel, fire engineering practices and regularly scheduled prevention inspections.

Overall, the National Defence Fire Service, composed of a blend of RCAF military and DND civilians, responded to over 7,000 calls in 2013.

There were 11 reportable fires during 2013: five on the wing, two public service responses – one for the summer warehouse fire in Kingston and another for a private vehicle at the Greenwood Mall. There were also four wildland fires.

There were 127 non-fire incidents, including false alarms, fuel spills, rescues and motor vehicle accidents. Crews also responded to 41 medical emergencies and, while some were quite serious, all resulted in positive outcomes.

On the aircraft side of the house, there were an even 100 responses for emergencies and hazardous process stand-by.

Another service covered by FES is the respiratory protection program. During 2013, 132 personnel were fit tested for protective equipment: 52 received initial training, 37 personnel received training on self-contained breathing apparatus, 32 breathing air compressors were sampled for breathing air quality and five worksite quality assurance inspections were conducted.

The Fire Inspection Bureau was quite active during the year, performing regular fire inspections, engineering reviews and training of Wing personnel. Between personnel at Camp Aldershot and here on the wing, 494 inspections were conducted. Another 65 inspections were conducted in locations such as Yarmouth, Middleton and Barrington. The section trained 84 fire wardens, and 739 personnel received training in the use of portable fire equipment.

With everyone's assistance, 2014 will be another successful year. If you do need assistance, Fire and Emergency Services is here 24 hours a day, seven days a week, 365 days a year.

Learn more about family support

Military spouses in the Greenwood area are invited to an evening event designed to provide military families with critical information regarding family support programs and services.

The event, called Family Forum, will take place over two evenings, February 18 and 19, to accommodate busy family schedules, with both sessions starting at 7 p.m. at the Military Family Resource Centre (MFRC).

On either evening, military family members will have the opportunity to informally chat with representatives from the Family Information Line, the National Military Family Council, the MFRC, SISIP (Service Income Security Insurance Plan), OSISS (Operational Stress Injury Social Support) and others.

The newly founded RCAF Family Support Team will also be available with information on national programs and ways "grass root" solutions may be developed for RCAF families.

"There are more resources than ever, and this is an important chance to connect with families directly to let them know what's available," says Lieutenant-Colonel Jean Mallais, who heads the team running the Family Forums. "We're assembling key contacts who have a vested interest in the well-being of military families to provide information on how easy it is to access first-class support."

Childcare at the forum will be provided free of charge, provided attendees register in advance by contacting (902) 765-5611 or emailing home@greenwoodmfr.ca. It should be noted the childcare service cannot accommodate children in diapers.

The RCAF Family Support Team is made of Canadian Armed Forces members, assisted by an RCAF family volunteer, dedicated to hearing from families and – when necessary – serving as advocates to ensure national resources are tailored to those who need them most.

"We are really looking forward to hearing from families at these events," says Mallais. "We can't guarantee every question will be answered on the spot, but we will ensure major concerns will be identified to the appropriate levels of RCAF leadership."

While the Family Forum is intended for spouses and loved ones, CAF members are welcome to attend.

Those unable to attend the forums can still contact the Family Information Line for any support needed as a result of the unique nature of military life. The Family Information Line is a confidential, bilingual service staffed 24 hours a day, seven days a week by professional counsellors at 1-800-866-4546. Program and service information is also available any time at www.familyforce.ca.

Kingston rink volunteers were overwhelmed with the support of a sell-out February 1 crowd at a fundraising dinner and auction. Submitted

Arena support keeps Kingston momentum going

Kingston and its community friends are determined to prove the village is "Hockeyville," and a fundraising dinner February 1 at the Annapolis Mess at 14 Wing Greenwood went a long way towards the goal.

The dinner raised $49,000 for the Credit Union Centre (Kingston rink), with over 450 people in attendance. Everyone enjoyed a Meadowbrook Meats roast pork dinner, followed by live and silent auctions and a concert featuring Big Fish, from Halifax. Gary Leason was the auctioneer and Kings County Councillor Bob Best was the ringman. Wayne Fowler, rink association president; and K-Rock announcers were MCs for the evening.

Three big auction items for the evening included the Kingston Hockeyville "one of a kind" jersey designed by T&S Office, won with a bid of $1,050 by Valley Credit Union; the Sidney Crosby signed and shadow boxed jersey, donated by Valley Credit Union, won by Justin Barker of Bruce Auto Group for $2,500; and the Greenwood Auto Sales donated Toronto trip for two including executive suites across from the ACC, flights and two tickets to see the Montreal Canadians versus the Toronto Maple Leafs; won by Robbie Parker and Kevin Ryerson for $4,500.

Scotiabank contributed a matched funds donation of $5,000, and Valley Drug Mart Pharmasave donated $5,000 in memory of Maynard Hines.

Organizers express thanks to the Friends of the Villages group for its support manning the silent auction for the evening, and helping keep the bids tallied and recorded. Staff of the Village of Kingston, along with Scotiabank and the Credit Union, worked hand in hand to sell out the venue.

Fowler said he, along with the rink's board of directors, were excited to see the support for the facility, as the evening's attendance and the overwhelming endorsement of Kingston's bid for the 2014 Kraft Hockeyville national title – and $100,000 in rink upgrades – have certainly demonstrated that. A rink party and community parade earlier in January added to the Kingston nomination.

At the dinner, Kings West MLA Leo Glavine announced a $90,000 provincial grant to help with arena repairs of the concrete pad, coolant piping and header to the plant, boards, glass and safety netting. Fowler said the rink will be moving ahead with the work, in partnership with the County of Kings and its engineering staff, in the coming weeks, with tender documents released shortly.

Veteran of the month

Master Corporal (retired) Paul Kerr joined the military in 1981 as a marine engineer. He served on the HMCS Saguenay and HMCS Protecteur, where he received a CDS Unit Citation for conduct above and beyond. He remustered to the Canadian Military Engineers as a plumber, gas fitter and heating tech in 1984. During his career, in addition to many postings and tours to the Arctic, he completed two United Nations and the equivalent of six NATO tours. Kerr retired medically in 2002 due to injuries received while training in Bosnia, and Royal Canadian Legion Branch 098 Kingston is proud to present Kerr as February's veteran of the month.

Reading fun!
January 28, families were treated to a morning of fun as the Greenwood Military Family Resource Centre and the 14 Wing Library teamed up to provide fun activities to celebrate National Literacy Day 2014. The theme this year was “15 minutes of family fun,” and fun is indeed what the children attending the activity had! A wide variety of children’s stories were read “under the story tree” by guest readers Jill Jackson, 14 Wing community recreation director; and Mike Taylor, Personnel Support Program manager (shown). Families also received a literacy package of activities and a free book to take home so they can continue to make literacy an important part of their daily routines.

Fun By The Numbers
Here’s How It Works: Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Feb 09 - Feb 15

ARIES - Mar 21/Apr 20
Aries, strange forces seem to be working against you, but fortunately you are prepared for anything that comes your way. Allow for some time to get things settled.

TAURUS - Apr 21/May 21
Taurus, keep a firm hand on your wallet so you can avoid spending well beyond your means. It is best if you avoid making any impulse purchases in the near future.

GEMINI - May 22/June 21
Gemini, listen carefully when a family member comes to you with some sage advice. Even a seemingly relaxed conversation may prove fruitful.

CANCER - June 22/July 22
Cancer, you may seem rushed this week, but resist the temptation to go faster than is comfortable for you. Take your time so things are done right the first time.

LEO - July 23/Aug 23
Leo, you may have so much fun this week that you don't realize you have been getting work done in the process. Your attitude is even inspiring others around you.

VIRGO - Aug 24/Sept 22
Take a step back when you don't see eye to eye with a colleague, Virgo. Disagreements can quickly escalate, so keep a level head and take all things into consideration.

LIBRA - Sept 23/Oct 23
Libra, your intuition and ability to work with people closely will make your life much more enjoyable. Make use of these talents as you pursue a new career path.

SCORPIO - Oct 24/Nov 22
Falling into a slump just isn't your style, Scorpio. Even if things don't seem to be going your way, your attitude and work ethic will make the most of the situation.

SAGITTARIUS - Nov 23/Dec 21
Sagittarius, playing games with someone can be fun, but don't let things turn into a serious rivalry. Focus on being lighthearted this week.

CAPRICORN - Dec 22/Jan 20
Capricorn, your responsible nature helps those in your care to feel safe and secure. It is good to show others how much they mean to you, and you have been doing it correctly.

AQUARIUS - Jan 21/Feb 18
Some well-hidden information could come to the surface, and you will have the ability to put it to use, Aquarius. Just don't let the power go to your head.

PISCES - Feb 19/Mar 20
Pisces, you must deal with a potentially delicate matter in the days to come. Keep a cool head and remain confident.
