Radars right on

Corporal Jason Sheardown reads the data.

Corporal Jason Sheardown, Wing Telecommunications and Information Services Squadron

Aerospace telecommunication information system techs (ATIS) make sure electronic eyes are seeing clearly.

The purpose of the ATIS techs' flight check is to make sure the Precision Approach Radar (PAR) is properly calibrated. This is extremely important, as the PAR's purpose is to provide guidance for aircraft attempting to land in either extreme weather or in some type of distress, such as smoke in the cockpit. Any time the pilot's visual approach is compromised, the PAR gives the air traffic controllers (ATC) the information they need to guide the aircraft in safely: the ATCs essentially become of the eyes of the pilot.

The first part of the flight check is when the ATIS techs take care of aligning the Theodolite out on the tarmac. Once aligned, the ATCs step in and begin to observe the approach angle of the incoming aircraft through the Theodolite. As the aircraft approaches, the ATC will radio commands to the aircraft to guide it onto the ideal slope and centerline approach. As the aircraft is guided to the perfect angle of approach, the ATC will radio "on glide path." Every time the ATC radios that response to his colleagues back in the ATC control room, they will observe if the information the PAR is displaying on their screen matches the information being relayed to them from the tarmac. If enough matching information is collected, the PAR can then be confirmed to be calibrated properly. If there are discrepancies, then the ATIS techs will be called in to figure out why, and correct the problem.

The Instrument Flight Radar Control Centre conducts a Theodolite operation at 14 Wing Greenwood.

RCAF takes part in Peru disaster relief exercise

Aircrews from the Royal Canadian Air Force (RCAF) deployed to Peru to take part in Exercise Cooperación III, a key Latin American multinational exercise. The exercise focused on disaster relief, running from April 19 to May 2.

This deployment highlights two milestones for the RCAF: it is the first time a CH149 Cormorant has been transported by a CC177 Globemaster III, and it is the first time a Cormorant has been deployed outside of North America.

"Cormorant crews have demonstrated time and again that they can help those in need at home and, through this exercise, Canadians can be proud to know that we are demonstrating our ability to help those in need abroad," said Colonel Jim Benninger, commander of the RCAF Air Task Force.

The exercise tested the air-transportability of the helicopter in an expeditionary setting to simulate response to an international crisis. In addition, the RCAF conducted air expeditionary training, search and rescue, and humanitarian aid delivery training.

The Globemaster is from 429 Transport Squadron at 8 Wing Trenton, and the Cormorant is from 413 Transport and Rescue Squadron at 14 Wing Greenwood. Also participating in the exercise is a CC130J Hercules from 426 Transport Training Squadron at 8 Wing, as well as crews from 9 Wing Gander and 19 Wing Comox.

As part of Canada's Global Engagement Strategy, the CAF is working toward a more prosperous, secure and democratic hemisphere through participation in exercises like Cooperación III. The RCAF plays a significant role in this commitment as a member of the System of Cooperation among the Air Forces of the Americas, known in Spanish as the Sistema de Cooperación entre las Fuerzas Aéreas Americanas (SICOFAA).

"This exercise highlights the importance of partnerships and interoperability within SICOFAA nations," said Lieutenant-General Yvan Blondin, commander of the RCAF. "By conducting air expeditionary training, and practicing our humanitarian aid delivery and search and rescue capabilities in this region, the RCAF will be even better prepared should we ever be called upon to assist in the event of a natural disaster."

Approximately 60 members of the Canadian Armed Forces deployed.

14 Wing marks Road Safety Week May 12 to 19

Master Corporal David Bruce, R & V Safety, TEME

May 12 to 19, the Canadian Armed Forces will be conducting its annual National Road Safety Week campaign. This year's theme is "leave the phone alone."

Studies indicate usage of cellular phones while driving has increased by 11 per cent over the last five years. In today's society, almost everyone carries around a smartphone or cellular phone with them. The mobile phone has become a staple and, for many people, mobile phones are a necessity.

With summer just around the corner, many of us will be out on the roads more than usual. We'll be out travelling to the beach, camping, family reunions, etc. The urge to answer and talk on mobile phones is very much a reactive and repetitive response in most people. To answer and talk on your mobile phone, or text while driving, is dangerous and, in Nova Scotia, it is illegal, unless you do so via Bluetooth.

Safe driving must always be a priority. If you're driving, remember to "leave the phone alone." If you really need to make that call or send that text, pull over to the side of the road or into a parking lot or, if you can wait, wait until you reach your destination.

As parents, remember your children follow your example. Set a good example and "leave the phone alone" while driving.

Prevention is the key to safety. Always drive with safety in mind!

Day to remember

In recognition of the National Day of Honour May 9, Lieutenant-Colonel David Proteau, commanding officer of 14 Wing Greenwood's 404 Squadron, visited with students and staff at Dwight Ross Elementary School May 8. Time was spent sharing information of his and other military members' time deployed in Afghanistan, and a question period was held at the end of the presentation to allow students to ask questions about this important day. Holding the Canadian flag with Proteau are, from left, Emily Grace Clarke, Emiley Wadman, Connor Hines and Malcolm Naugler from DRES's Grade 5 class.

14e Escadre Semaine de la sécurité routière 12-19 May 2014

Du 12 au 19 mai, les Forces canadiennes effectueront la campagne annuelle de la Semaine nationale de la sécurité routière. Le thème de cette année sera «laisser le téléphone seul.»

Des études indiquent que l'utilisation des téléphones cellulaires au volant a augmenté de 11% au cours des cinq dernières années. Dans la société d'aujourd'hui, presque tout le monde possède un téléphone intelligent ou un téléphone cellulaire. Le téléphone mobile est devenu un aliment de base et pour beaucoup de gens, les téléphones mobiles sont une nécessité.

Alors que l'été est à nos portes, beaucoup d'entre nous voyagerons sur les routes plus qu'à l'habitude. Nous irons à la plage, au camping, ainsi qu'aux réunions familiales, etc. L'envie de répondre et de parler sur le téléphone mobile est une réaction naturelle pour la plupart des gens. Répondre, parler, ou envoyer un message texte pendant la conduite est dangereux. En Nouvelle-Écosse c'est un fait illégal, à moins que vous le fassiez via Bluetooth.

La conduite sécuritaire doit toujours être une priorité. Si vous êtes en voiture, n'oubliez pas de «laisser le téléphone seul.» Si vous avez vraiment besoin de faire un appel ou envoyer un message texte, et vous ne pouvez pas attendre votre destination, rangez-vous sur le côté de la route ou dirigez-vous vers un stationnement.

En tant que parents, n'oubliez pas que vos enfants suivent votre exemple. Si vous choisissez d'utiliser le téléphone pendant que vous conduisez, alors vos enfants penseront que ses acceptable de le faire. Donnez le bon exemple et «laisser le téléphone seul», tout en conduisant.

La prévention est la clé de la sécurité. Toujours conduire avec la sécurité à l'esprit!

African Nova Scotians at war

The Army Museum
Halifax Citadel,
The Road to Vimy
and Beyond

African Nova Scotians were every bit as eager as their white brethren to fight for their country during the First World War. Sadly, they had another battle to overcome before they were allowed to don the king's uniform: the one against racial prejudice.

Overcome it they did, and hundreds went on to serve honourably with the Canadian Expeditionary Force in Europe as members of No. 2 Construction Battalion. Raised in Nova Scotia, this outfit was the only predominantly black unit in our nation's military history, and the only one to have served Canada in the First World War.

The contribution made by the No. 2 Construction Battalion to Canada's 1914-1918 war effort will be featured in the largest exhibition ever to be mounted by the Army Museum

Halifax Citadel. The exhibition, "The Road to Vimy and Beyond," runs from May until November 2018, and honours the role Canada, especially Nova Scotia, played in the Allied victory in 1918. The event will be second only in size to that planned by the Canadian War Museum in Ottawa. In addition, the Army Museum Halifax Citadel will upgrade its Second World War displays to commemorate the 75th anniversary of that conflict.

When Canada entered the First World War, there was no official policy on admitting African Canadians into the Army. The decision was left to each unit's commanding officer and, while some units - like the 106th Battalion, Nova Scotia Rifles (Truro); were open to all races, many more across Canada were not.

By spring of 1916, Canada's flow of volunteers for military service was drying up alarmingly. Bending to pressure from the nation's black community, the Militia Council authorized the formation of a black construction battalion to be headquartered in Nova Scotia, home of Canada's largest black community. Command was given to Lieutenant-Colonel D.H. Sutherland of River John, and the officers were white - with one exception: the unit padre, Captain the Reverend William A. White, who made history as the first - and only - black commissioned officer in the British Empire during the war.

The No. 2 Construction Battalion was never intended to be an actual combat unit because the nation's black population wasn't large enough to sustain an infantry battalion. Instead, the volunteers' duties would revolve around logging, milling, repairing infrastructures such as roads, and ensuring water supplies were maintained.

More than 500 members of the Nova Scotia's black community stepped forward to serve with No 2 Construction Battalion, along with 165 African American volunteers. The unit assembled in Pictou, but then transferred to Truro because there was more barrack space there. Early in 1917, the men were dispatched to New Brunswick to help lift rails from the Grand Trunk Railroad so they could be shipped to the Western Front battlefields in Europe. Here again, the No. 2 Construction Battalion made history as the only volunteer unit to engage in war-work, before actually shipping overseas.

The battalion, with 19 officers and 605 men, finally sailed for England in March 1917 and, some weeks after arrival, it was sent on to France. Because of its relatively small size, the battalion was downgraded to company status in May 1917, and attached to the Canadian Forestry Corps. The volunteers found themselves harvesting trees in order to create the boardwalks, trench shoring, crates and countless other wooden items needed by the Allied armies at the front. Even though it wasn't involved directly in combat, some volunteers were killed and others wounded by artillery fire, poison gas and construction accidents.

Hostilities in Europe ended in November 1918, and the No. 2 Construction Battalion returned to Canada several months later. The unit was officially disbanded in September, 1919.

In 1992, the Government of Canada designated the No. 2 Construction Battalion an event of national historic significance and, the following year, a commemorative plaque marking this honour was placed in Pictou. In its day, the No. 2 Construction Battalion was a testament to the determination of African Canadians to serve. Its creation made history, although not necessarily for the right reasons, given that it was the first - and last - segregated black Canadian Army unit. In August 1917, Ottawa introduced conscription. From then on, it didn't matter what your race, creed or colour; if you were of age and in good health, you were obliged to don the king's uniform. By the end of the First World War, in addition to No 2 Construction Battalion, more than 2,000 African Canadians served their country proudly.

April is known as Military Child Month, an American tradition 14 Wing Greenwood brought to Canada this year.

April 30, representatives from 14 Wing visited local schools to show their appreciation for the military children in our community. With the help of the Greenwood Military Family Resource Centre, each child was presented with a handmade dandelion, the flower of the military child. Attached to each flower was a card that explained why the dandelion is so much like the military child.

"The plant puts down roots almost anywhere, and it's almost impossible to destroy. It's an unpretentious plant - yet beautiful. They can survive almost anywhere," explains Captain Kent Molyneaux, 404 Squadron, during his presentation at Dwight Ross Elementary School.

While April is about celebrating the military child, the wing included all the children in the schools, making sure they know they are just as "Growing up in a military family, I know how difficult each and every posting can be on kids," said Joliane Laforce, GMFRC liaison school coordinator. "You feel uprooted and pushed into a new environment, surrounded by strange new faces. I also know my childhood would have been more difficult had it not been for all of the friends who welcomed me into my new community."

École Rose Des Vents, Dwight Ross, Kingston and Pine Ridge Middle School students and staff were all incredibly welcoming and thankful to have the members of 14 Wing visit and give such great presentations.

"It was nice to see such a great display of gratitude towards all our children. It really helps to continually build on the partnership between the schools and the base," said Brian Rafuse, principal of Kingston District School. "The dandelion is a brilliant example for our military children - I don't think I will ever look at them as weeds again."

Sergeant Ken Moore, Maritime Proving and Evaluation Unit, talks to Kingston school children about Military Child Month.

Réalisez votre jardin de rêve sans vous ruiner

(EN) — Pour métamorphoser votre jardin, vous n'avez pas besoin de dépenser des centaines de dollars en honoraires d'architecte-paysagiste. Suivez ces conseils simples et abordables pour lui donner du piquant en un clin d'œil.

Des clôtures originales. Vous êtes aux prises avec un mur de béton? Installer un treillis ou deux suffira à donner une allure chic à votre jardin. Et pour mettre le treillis en valeur, ajoutez-y des plantes grimpantes.

Colorez votre environnement. Les paniers suspendus ajoutent toujours une touche élégante à un porche ou une véranda, et ils égailent instantanément tout jardin. Optez pour de grands paniers. Les couleurs des fleurs y sont superbement agencées. Ce panier est grand et spacieux, ce qui est un facteur très important, car plus la capacité d'un panier est grande, moins les fleurs s'assèchent. Pour être certain que vos paniers attireront tous les regards, choisissez-les de teintes vives, comme vert pomme ou prune, car elles se marieront à merveille avec les fleurs.

Semez des cailloux. Ajoutez de jolis galets ou des pierres à la base des plants, ou borde un sentier de grandes roches lisses. Cette touche élégante mettra en valeur les formes et les courbes de votre cour.

Et la lumière fut! Vous recevez un soir d'été? Créez l'ambiance parfaite en éclairant savamment votre paradis extérieur. La lumière de bougies, de lampes ou de jardinières illuminées donnera une ambiance chaleureuse et intime à votre cour.

Utilisez des jardinières colorées. Placez-les sur les bords de votre patio pour délimiter l'espace de votre cour, ou disposez-les directement dans votre jardin. Leur style intemporel rehaussera tout décor extérieur.

Build up a plan for a smart renovation

(NC) — Everyone has heard a construction horror story, either through a friend, family member or on a home improvement program. Whether it's about contractor work not performed to code or to customer specifications, or about projects taking longer than expected, or a story about costs going way over budget, home renovations can be a stressful endeavour.

Did you know that 40 per cent of households (in 10 regions of the country) have indeed renovated their home - and three-quarters of those households used a contractor to do all, or some of the work? Those were the findings of a survey conducted by the Canadian Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

Try these tips to help you finish your summer renovation projects with better success:

Connect with previous customers: Ask your friends for referrals of contractors they've used, especially on similar projects. Request additional referrals from possible candidates.

Look for consistency and permanence: The ideal service provider has a physical business office and address and has been in business for a number of years under the same name.

Do a legal check: Ensure contractors are licensed by your province and they have insurance so they are covered if they are injured during the project.

Notify your insurer: Contact your insurance broker to discuss whether any of the renovations will require an adjustment to your home policy.

Grill this summer without the guilt

(NC) - Barbecue season wouldn't be the same without the sauces and condiments that enhance the flavour of grilled dishes.

Did you know many store-bought and homemade sauces and condiments are filled with hidden sugar? One tablespoon of ketchup, for example, contains an entire teaspoon of sugar.

Fortunately, there are a number of new products on the market that provide all of the flavour of our favourite condiments, without all of those unwanted calories. Or, make your own marinade at home by substituting the all-natural sweetener xylitol for most of the sugar. Now you can fire up the grill and indulge without the guilt – and here's a sensational recipe to get things rolling:

Low and Slow BBQ Chicken Thighs

Ingredients

8 chicken thighs (about 2½ lbs) with or without skin

Marinade

1/3 cup coarse salt
1/3 cup xylitol

1 tablespoon brown sugar
1/3 cup paprika
1 teaspoon ground cumin
1/8 teaspoon cayenne pepper
1/2 teaspoon black pepper
1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
1/4 teaspoon onion powder
4 cups water

Combine all dry ingredients in a large glass bowl. Add water and mix thoroughly. Add the chicken and allow it to marinate for 30 minutes in the fridge. Set the barbecue for indirect grilling and cook the chicken for 2-3 hours, flipping halfway. Feel free to baste with more sauce. You'll know the chicken is done when the thickest part reaches 170° F.

Filling up on fun

Wing Replenishment enjoyed a fun-filled day of curling, food and a baked items and yard sale auction April 10. Competition was fierce, but friendly! Auction proceeds will be used for Wing Replenishment entertainment activities. All in all, many laughs and memories were made.

Rec league ends on a high note

April 25, 14 Wing Greenwood saw yet another chapter to a successful year of hockey between local units at the Greenwood Gardens. Seventeen teams, 348 players and 359 games cumulated in a spirited three division playoff race.

Back in September, the league was officially renamed the Greenwood Recreation Hockey League, starting the season October 15 with 16 teams. A organizational shift in January saw the re-alignment of some teams and the addition of "The Old Timers" to the A division, which solidified two competitive groups of hockey teams.

At the end of the regular season, the league split into three divisions, giving teams a competitive chance at winning their division. Playoffs started March 25.

The A Division saw a tight race, but the crowning of new division champions: Wing Telecommunications and Support Squadron. The final was an excellent two-out-of-three series between WTISS and 404 Squadron. WTISS' play, inspired by solid goaltending and determination, saw them go 8-1 in the playoffs to capture the Schooner Cup for the first time in six years.

The B Division final was an exciting matchup between Aldershot and ACS. Winning in a thrilling shoot out in game one, Aldershot went on to win the second game 4-1.

The C Division final pitted the combined efforts of 405's Eagles and Pathfinders against the always tough 413 Squadron SAR Techs. Requiring

The season's wrap-up banquet was held April 25 at the Annapolis Mess. Catering to a full house, the event included prizes, food, beverages and comradeship, ending the season on a high note. Congratulations to all division winners: an excellent showing by all, proving active participation and sport is alive and well at 14 Wing. A big shout out goes to league president Matt Baer and vice president Tom Tucesku, who delivered another great season of hockey and sportsmanship.

Don't forget: the next season starts a mere four months from now!

Fun By The Numbers
Here's How It Works: Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

horoscopes

May 11 - May 17

ARIES - Mar 21/Apr 20
No matter how challenging it may be, slow down and give yourself time to reflect, Aries. You're always on the go, but it's important to slow down every now and then.

TAURUS - Apr 21/May 21
Taurus, steer clear of added responsibilities this week, as you already have enough on your plate. Some alone time might be worth its weight in gold.

GEMINI - May 22/June 21
You're not easily overwhelmed by intense people or things, Gemini. Use this resilience to sail through a particularly challenging task that gets sent your way this week.

CANCER - Jun 22/Jul 22
There is no need to figure out all of the answers in the next few days, Cancer. If something is on your mind, then take your time to weigh all of your options.

LEO - Jul 23/Aug 23
It could be challenging to be playful and light-hearted this week, Leo. Take every situation seriously and give ample thought to each and every decision you must make.

VIRGO - Aug 24/Sept 22
Make the best of a delicate situation at work, Virgo. Although you may not be ready for more responsibility, your reaction will be noticed by your bosses.

LIBRA - Sept 23/Oct 23
Libra, hold tight to your beliefs this week and don't let anyone sway your opinion. You will serve as an example to others who bend whichever way the wind blows.

SCORPIO - Oct 24/Nov 22
Scorpio, you may not have all of the solutions, but rest assured that you have been moving in the right direction. An interesting conversation illuminates the situation.

SAGITTARIUS - Nov 23/Dec 21
You have gained a new sense of purpose, Sagittarius, and you're ready to put some of your plan into action. Expect a few raised eyebrows, but most people will be receptive.

CAPRICORN - Dec 22/Jan 20
Capricorn, you are ready for a well-deserved vacation or retreat. But you cannot run away from your responsibilities this week. Just hold out a little longer.

AQUARIUS - Jan 21/Feb 18
Your finances seem to be a constant source of aggravation, Aquarius. This week you are ready to take care of business and hammer out a foolproof budget.

PISCES - Feb 19/Mar 20
Pisces, your energy level will be quite high, making it vital for you to do something productive before your stamina slows down.

Kingston Lions Club

On-going events, such as the weekly Wednesday bingos, monthly noon luncheon and variety music nights; continue to be well attended at the Kingston Lions Club. A number of Lions also attended Red Cross Team Alert training March 22. Hall maintenance and improvements, such as an upgrade to the upper bar, keep in-house handymen busy. The Lions, along with Village of Kingston and the Kingston Legion, are gearing up to run this year's steer BBQ and village fair July 11 and 12. It is the Lions' turn to coordinate the fair, and more information will follow.

The Lions continue to support the local community, recently providing support to the Greenwood Library, the Kingston Apple Blossom princess committee, the Greenwood Canada Day celebrations and others. As well, Lions provided funding for the purchase of kits for local schools to raise the awareness of the endangered Blandings turtle through the club's environmental awareness committee. Committee members will be visiting local schools on this topic. At the club's last supper meeting, Kings West MLA and Minister of Health Leo Glavine gave an informative presentation on the challenges facing our healthcare system, as well as initiatives being implemented to improve the delivery of healthcare.

April marked the Lions' 2014 drug awareness poster contest, aimed at school-aged children from primary to Grade 5 in Dwight Ross, Kingston Elementary and École Rose des Vents schools. The kids made a poster to raise awareness about the negative impacts of drug abuse. The first place winners from each school were sent on to the Nova Scotia Lions' convention at the end of April in Truro.

Grade 12 graduation is fast approaching, and Lions would like to highlight the number of bursaries available to graduates within the Kingston club's boundaries. Normally each year, there are three $700 Kingston Lions Club bursaries available. The criteria used to select the recipients include financial need, academic achievement and citizenship. Students pursuing post-secondary education at the university or college level are encouraged to apply.

Additionally, the $500 Earl Peters Lions Memorial Bursary is available for students graduating from West Kings High School and École Rose des Vents, or other mature students within the boundaries of the Kingston Lions Club; to provide assistance with university or community college tuition, or to upgrade high school or trade/technical school education. Applications are available through the respective schools guidance departments beginning in early May. Lions encourage students to apply.

Come on and join us. Call 902-765-2128 and leave a message for the membership chairman. At the Kingston Lions Club, "We Serve."

Play & perform

Staff and students of Dwight Ross Elementary School were recently treated to a visit from the Neptune Young Company. Their show, Head-A-Tete, was an engaging and hilarious performance which focused on the importance of communication and compromise. Actors Rhys Bevan-John, left, and Glen Matthews took time after the show to answer questions from the audience, including students (and sisters) Jada and Kayla LeBlanc.
