Windows' light, lives remembered highlight St. Mark's 60th

Sara Keddy,
Managing editor

A little piece of St. Mark's Chapel history popped up at just the right time to mark a major milestone this spring.

April 26, the congregation and invited community friends will rededicate a memorial panel of stained glass windows as part of 60th anniversary celebrations of the dedication of the chapel in 1955.

Chapel archivist Mary Lou Graham was pleased to recently accept from Frank Martyn a service bulletin from that dedication event. Martyn is the son-in-law of then-Wing Commander

C.D. MacLean. As Graham considered the bulletin, she noticed the dates: "This is the anniversary year."

The three-panel window was installed as the chapel was dedicated in 1955, two years after the original construction. Captain The Reverend Ken Greer, chapel padre, says those panels hold "sacred the memory of everyone who, at that time, had died supporting missions out of Greenwood base," including close to three dozen individuals. Along with squadron crests for 404 and 405 squadrons, the crest of the early-days search and rescue group, 103 Squadron, and 2 Maritime Operations glass shows, in the left panel, Jesus Christ calling a disciple to serve, with the words "Put on the Whole Armour of God" and "They shall mount up with wings as Eagles." The right panel depicts Jesus encouraging and blessing

Music marks occasion

A celebration event without music wouldn't be the same, and St. Mark's Chapel, Greenwood, invites friends to join them for an evening of Christian entertainment April 25.

The concert is part of a two-day event marking St. Mark's 60th anniversary of commemorative stained glass windows marking those service men lost on training and operations from 14 Wing Greenwood. A re-dedication will take place at the April 26 St. Mark's service.

Saturday evening, the music of Acacia and Glenn Vincent Breen is centre stage. Acacia is a Christian singing/ song writing team. Along with their own material, Gail Fulop and Wayne Slaunwhite will perform some old favourites. Breen is a hospital chaplain at the IWK Hospital in Halifax and a former military chaplain. He is a Christian singer/ songwriter ready to inspire.

Doors open at 6:30 p.m. Come and get a seat, some popcorn and be ready for a lovely evening. Tickets are $5 each, available through Dawn Lea Greer (dawnleagreer@hotmail.com).

Multi-skilled operators qualify for heavy equipment ops

Lieutenant Andrea Dornan

Congratulations to four of Transportation and Electrical and Mechanical Engineering (TEME) Squadron's mobile support equipment operators (MSE Ops) on achieving their 935.05 certification. Recipients included Master Corporal France Durand, Corporal Jennifer Saltzman, Corporal Mike Pontbriand and Master Corporal Kye Keeping.

This package aims to develop the skill and knowledge required to operate general purpose MSE and Special Purpose MSE in support of airfield operations throughout the Canadian Armed Forces. To attain this qualification, members are required to train and prove their skills on 13 different pieces of GPMSE and SPMSE over a 15-month period. These vehicles include front end loaders, specialised cranes and aircraft refueller tankers. There is also a special emphasis on vehicles in support of snow and ice control (SNIC), such as runway sweepers and high speed plows - which 14 Wing trainees received plenty of experience doing through this winter at 14 Wing Greenwood! Throughout the 935.05 program, the trainees learn how to carry out continued maintenance on the selected equipment and the skills to operate the equipment correctly and professionally.

This dedication to professional development and continued learning is remarkable, and the skills faithfulness in service: "They faith hath made Thee whole." The centre panel shows Jesus rewarding those who serve with everlasting life: "Be Thou faithful until death and I will give thee a crown

Since the windows were installed and dedicated, there have been two major incidents at 14 Wing Greenwood: the 1965 Argus crash which killed 16 service men in Puerto Rico, and the loss of a service man from an Aurora in 1966. At this week's rededication, those individual's names will be added to the plaques within the chapel that support the memorial window.

Greeg says the actual service will mirror 1955's event, including some of the prayers and scripture originally used. 14 Wing Greenwood Commander Colonel Iain Huddleston and Wing Chief Warrant Officer Pierrot Jetté will read, and representatives from 404, 405 and 413 (Transport & Rescue) squadrons will be invited to represent squadron members of the past in the rededication. Musicians Aca-cia and Glenn Vincent Breen will perform again, after their evening concert the night before. Greer and Captain Reverend Doctor Gord Poley will be the celebrants, and reception and light lunch hosted by the chapel guild will follow.

"We just want to remain connected," Greer says, describing the on-going connection between 14 Wing personnel and heritage. "The windows were well done.

Fire service 'unbelievable' 14 Wing's new chief ready for the challenge

Sara Keddy,
Managing editor

Captain James Gannon is fully aware his new job as 14 Wing Greenwood's fire chief could be the best job of his career.

"I know I've probably said that about every job after 20 years in the forces," Gannon says, "but this is challenging, rewarding and comes with a great crew of people."

Gannon is a construction engineering officer, and could be doing planning, operations, contracts or any of the myriad supervisory roles that fall within the trade. Fresh out of the fire manager indoctrination course, he was posted to 14 Wing's Fire and Emergency Services in February.

"It was a 'win-win' posting. They asked me if I wanted to be a fire chief – yes! They said Greenwood – yes!"

Gannon arrived in Greenwood for the first time on a driver's course, back in 1999 as a West Nova Scotia Regiment member. He remustered as a plumber and was back in Greenwood, part of 141 Airfield Engineering Flight in Bridgewater, to build a C-span. He joined the Regular Force in 2002, and had several postings and tours, including the Golan Heights in 2003, an exercise in Fort Bragg, North Carolina; and teaching plumbing and heating at the Canadian Forces School of Military Engineering. He attended Royal Military College for officer training, beginning in 2008, and was posted to Greenwood in 2011 as an air traffic controller in training. Following a stint in Moose Jaw, he was back in Greenwood again in 2013, as a construction engineer in training, and then deployed to Georgia as flight commander on a construction exchange.

"The fire world is unbelievable," Gannon says. "I arrived here and the deputy, Master Warrant Officer Les Blackmore, sent out an email letting people know I was here. There were so many responses – very welcoming. So far, so good."

But, those were early days. Gannon met Sparky the fire mascot for the first time, and was heading out on platoon duties as a ride-along on day and night shift fire crews for a week.

"I'm learning my job as I go: the fire crews have experience I don't, but I have experience they don't. We'll feed off each other."

He's well aware he has big shoes to fill: outgoing fire chief Captain Bruce Paradis retired in December: "he has forgotten more than I'll ever learn, and I've been picking my deputy's brain to get as much out of him as I can because he's gone in June. The second week I was here, he was on vacation and we had seven calls in two days: the fact that these crews live and work at what can be such an unpredictably demanding pace is really impressive!"

Gannon takes on challenges: a handful of his 50-member department are away on trainings, inspections and deployments; and there is a nation-wide equipment shuffle in the works to ensure bases have the gear – the expensive gear – they need to cover airfield and property safety standards. Training never ends, and Gannon is amazed at the standards and certificates his firefighters work to keep current.

The fire department is also a visible base life partner here in Greenwood, leading the annual Pull the Pumper challenge for the Upper Room

Captain James Gannon is 14 Wing Greenwood's new fire chief at Fire and Emergency Services, arriving to the post in February. Fire service mascot Sparky welcomed him to the department.

Food Bank, fundraising for muscular dystrophy and fending off challengers in the intersection hockey league. Gannon is a little suspicious of his recent assignment to a ball hockey team of fire hall command team members, as the early draws has his team of mostly office staff (all firefighters by trade themselves) facing every other firefighter crew as close to back-to-back as appears could be arranged....

"I am very much honoured to be the new fire chief, and I am very lucky to be working with all the great guys at the fire hall," he says. "These guys work, eat, sleep and breathe together on five different crews, plus a Camp Aldershot cell, and I'm excited to get in the mix with my team members."

Gannon is also pleased to be back in Greenwood with his wife, Tammy, and two children – Dylan and Madison – at home; one daughter, Alicia, is also a Canadian Armed Forces member, working in the Hornell Centre as an RMS clerk.

The 'unseen' side of 14 Wing communications

Corporal D.J.R. Villeneuve & Sergeant G.P. Flood, Royal Canadian Corps of Signals

Sometimes overlooked, members of the Department of National Defence's communication world, the Army Communication and Information Systems Specialist (ACISS) - line systems technologists (LST); are the installers and maintainers of the backbone communication infrastructure on every wing, base and camp - domestically and deployed.

The line section has two corporals and one master corporal, led by a sergeant, and is part of the Wing Telecommunications and Information Systems Squadron (WTISS) team here at 14 Wing Greenwood. The section is located in 4 Hangar, where members work with the rest of the WTISS family under the umbrella of the Wing Logistics and Engineering Branch.

Linemen are often found high on communication towers, or underground in the many manholes across the wing, linking tens of kilometres of cables, the towers situated on the base and in the surrounding areas. On call 24/7, linemen provide communication capability for the wing, enhancing flight training or operations. The line also provides the fibre optic service for secure networks directly to users. Linemen also work in the main termination rooms (MTRs) in every building, the central point connecting main communication cables that feed the immense amount of computers, telephones and all the different systems across the wing. You may have noticed the line truck parked by the side of the road, or randomly in a field.

At 14 Wing Greenwood, crews also work with the ATIS (aerospace telecommunication information systems) technicians. The linemen provide the main communication cable (copper or fibre optic) feed into the building's MTR; the ATIS technicians then provide the link to your office space or work station.

Winter is more harsh than summer for members of the trade, as they work mainly outside repairing damage by snow clearing operations, weather, natural phenomenon or excavation done by contractors. Recently, crews had to dig some of the frozen ground on an extremely cold day repairing fire alarm circuits. This was due to an impact between a pedestal (skinny grey box that stands three feet out of the ground) and a loader clearing snow - the pedestal lost that fight!

With the ever evolving communication technologies DND uses, there will always be a need for linemen and their skill set to connect them together, keeping the lines of communication open and operating.

Line section personnel set out on a visual inspection of the 60-foot beacon tower at the Aylesford site, after the first snow fall of the year.

HMCS Iroquois ends 43 years' service May 1

Maritime Forces Atlantic is encouraging all serving and retired members who have sailed aboard Her Majesty's Canadian Ship (HMCS) Iroquois to RSVP to the paying off ceremony May 1 in Halifax. Her Majesty's Canadian Ships are a unique workplace in the Canadian Armed Forces. Crew members develop a connection to their ship, as it can become their home for weeks - and months - at a time. HMCS Iroquois' achievements over more than four decades symbolise the excellent workmanship and special camaraderie of her crews and is why we honour the ship, her crew and HMCS Iroquois' valued service to Canadians.

The retirement of HMCS Iroquois has been anticipated for some time and is a step towards the introduction of new ships and capabilities, set to be delivered through the National Shipbuilding Procurement Strategy.

MFRC relief with end of fraud, theft trial

Karen Byers, former Greenwood Military Family Resource Centre staff member, was charged with fraud in July 2014 following a two-year investigation by the Canadian Forces National Investigation Service. The case was also referred to the RCMP's provincial proceeds of crime unit, leading to the charge of possessing the proceeds of crime being laid against both Gary and Karen Byers.

April 8, a provincial court judge sentenced Karen Byers to jail time for stealing from the GMFRC.

"The entire GMFRC organization - including staff, volunteers and our board of directors - are pleased to have this process take its course and see justice served. This is finally behind us, and we are happy to move forward," says GMFRC board chairwoman Kristin Gillis.

Since the discovery of missing funds in 2011, GMFRC personnel worked diligently to minimize disruption in services to families. Their efforts led to positive adjustments and adaptation to the ever-changing needs of military families, resulting in improved programs for children, increased adult programming and further mental health support services for families.

Margaret Reid, centre executive director, says "the GMFRC board of directors has handled this matter in a prompt and professional manner and has been extremely mindful of families and their community in determining an appropriate course of action."

The GMFRC has historically seen unprecedented support from the community over the past 29 years of service. The board of directors wants to assure families and community partners both the board and centre staff are doing everything they can to safeguard the interests of 14 Wing Greenwood families by establishing measures to protect the valuable resources - human, fiscal and material - entrusted to them. Together, they endeavour to tackle the challenges, deliver first-class care and support and build a more effective and efficient centre that will continue to provide programs and services that address the unique military lifestyle.

The GMFRC team is passionate about its work and takes its mission very seriously:

to celebrate and support families through their unique military lifestyle; and members believe military families are the strength behind the uniform. The GMFRC thanks families and the community for their partnership as it moves forward together.

Le défi de la santé et du mieux-être des FAC du 1er au 31 mai

Chaque choix est important, car ils s'accumulent!

Votre vie est véritablement une série de choix. Qu'il s'agisse de choisir vos vêtements pour assister au mariage de votre meilleur ami, le modèle de voiture que vous allez acheter ou la destination de vos vacances estivales. Bien que toutes ces décisions soient importantes, nous avons tendance à oublier que même les petits choix que nous faisons au quotidien s'accumulent véritablement.

Par exemple, choisir de garer votre voiture à une distance additionnelle de 100 mètres de votre lieu de travail tous les jours pour marcher davantage. Au cours d'une carrière de 30 ans, cette simple décision pourrait vous amener à parcourir à pied une distance additionnelle de 1 500 kilomètres. Même si cela semble incroyable, parcourir à pied cette distance vous permettra de brûler plus de 14 kg de gras. Si faire un choix aussi simple peut produire de tels effets importants, imaginez l'incidence que pourraient avoir tous les autres bons choix que vous faites au cours de votre vie. Un petit changement peut entraîner des bienfaits considérables, tout particulièrement lorsqu'il est question des choix d'un mode de vie sain.

Énergiser les Forces est fier de présenter une fois de plus le Défi de la santé et du mieux-être des FAC. Relevez le défi et faites des choix sains qui vous permettront d'améliorer votre bien-être général, tout en courant la chance de gagner l'un des prix extraordinaires : un android tablet, un Moniteur d'activités Zone, une mélangeur individuel Hamilton Beach et quatre tapis de yoga.

La santé est une préoccupation quotidienne et les petits choix que vous pouvez faire chaque jour peuvent grandement améliorer votre vie. ## CAF health and wellness challenge starts May 1

Make every choice count – it all adds up!

Your life truly is a series of choices. This includes things such as what to wear to your best friend's wedding, which model of car to buy and where to go on your summer vacation. While all these decisions are important, we tend to forget that even the smaller choices we make in our day to day lives really do add up.

Take, for instance, electing to walk more by parking your car 100 metres further from work every day. Over a 30-year career, that simple decision would result in an additional 1,500 kilometres of walking. While it may seem unbelievable, walking this distance will burn approximately 30 pounds of fat. If doing something this simple can have such a huge effect, imagine the potential impact from all of the other good choices you make throughout your life time. A little bit really can go a very long way – especially when it comes to making healthy lifestyle choices.

Strengthening the Forces is once again proud to bring you the CAF Health and Wellness Challenge. Join the challenge and make your healthy daily choices not only count by improving your overall wellness, but also by qualifying you to win one of our wonderful prizes: an Android I-Pad, one Lifetrak Zone, one Hamilton Beach Single Serve blender and four yoga mats.

Health is truly an every day issue and the small daily choices you make can have a big impact on improving your life. Walking your dog regularly, taking swimming lessons with your kids, hydrating before and after your workouts, and meditating are choices that can have a huge impact on your mental and physical well being.

Flight engineers needed

Are you an aviation systems technician (AVN)? Or an avionics systems technician (AVS)?

14 Wing Greenwood is hosting a flight engineer recruiting drive Tuesday, May 12 at the Birchall Training Centre, at 2 p.m.

All AVN and AVS technicians are invited to attend this information session for an exciting and rewarding career opportunity.

Contact Corporal Matt Jobes, at matthew.jobes@forces.gc.ca, or Sergeant Alex Cloutier, at cloutier.AA@forces.gc.ca for more information.

14 FES answered 405 calls through 2014

14 Wing Fire and Emergency Services provided all fire protection services to 14 Wing Greenwood and modified services to Camp Aldershot during 2014. The manning and equipment levels are established to meet a Category 6 airfield rescue and firefighting operation and emergency fire operations in respect of Department of National Defence and Canadian Armed Forces infrastructure.

14 Wing FES has an established manning of one captain as fire chief, and 40 Regular Force NCMs augmented by eight Reserve NCMs. At the end of 2014, FES was just under-manned, with 38 of the 40 positions filled.

FES continued to provide personnel for support of CAF operations and exercises, including contributions within Canada - Inuvik, Iqaluit, Alert, Borden, Cold Lake, Winnipeg, Gagetown; and internationally - Savannah, Georgia; Romania and Kuwait.

A number of personnel within FES received career training which placed a higher level of stress on the operational manning. With the large number of QL3 trades persons being produced by the system, FES is in a constant training cycle, with ongoing QL4 requirements and eventual QL5 course loading. In March, 14 Wing became a trial base for a Mobile Aircraft Trainer (MAFT), which allowed ARFF recertification training to be conducted at the wing providing significant cost savings. CFB Shearwater was recertified using this trainer at 14 Wing. This training was previously conducted at Pearson International.

Vehicle serviceability continued to be an issue through 2014 in regards to general purpose vehicles. The lack of a water tower or ladder truck has resulted in the continued use of a 1993 structural pumper, which remains a challenge to keep serviceable. A wildland vehicle was transferred from Detachment Dundurn in January to replace the current 1995-12817 International model, based in Camp Aldershot to provide protection to the ranges. The 2005 Stirling received had too many deficiencies to place in service: this vehicle is currently being repaired and is hoped to be in service prior to the upcoming wildland season.

14 Wing FES responded to 405 calls for assistance during 2014. These can be divided up into four categories: fire incidents (35: three Category 1, three Category 2, 27 Category 5, 2 brush/ grass fires), medical (35), aircraft incidents (80: 21 in-flight emergencies, two ground incidents, four barrier engagements, seven hazardous processes, three hot brakes, 41 engine run-ups, one cable operation and one blown tire), and non-fire incidents (255:

including false alarms, fuel spills/ leaks etc. (255: one ruptured water pipe, one vehicle accident, one public hazard - gasoline or fuel wash down, four public hazard - gasoline or fuel spill standby, six downed power lines, two miscellaneous public hazards, two propane leaks, three carbon monoxide alarm detections, three miscellaneous gas leaks, one citizen trapped in an elevator, one assist to police or other agency, 13 accidental miscellaneous, five smoke or steam mistaken for fire, five sprinkler surges or discharges, 82 detectors activated, 8 unknown odours, 16 miscellaneous, one internal or local alarm system call and one unclassified situation)

The Fire Inspection Bureau was active through 2014, performing regular fire inspections, engineering reviews and training of 14 Wing personnel. There were 385 inspections conducted of 14 Wing buildings, with another 126 completed at Camp Aldershot. Fifty-four off-wing buildings were also inspected. Both sites hosted two fire wardens' courses, training a total of 31 people. Portable firefighting equipment courses were held, required every four years for all CAF and DND employees, regardless of their employment: 35 at 14 Wing and four at Camp Aldershot, training a total of 456 people. Firefighters conducted 86 visits of Residential Housing Units at 14 Wing.

There were no significant fire trends at 14 Wing through 2014, and Aldershot again had reportable incidents caused by the misuse of pyrotechnics which, while not acceptable, it is a fact of operating ranges. In keeping with the firefighter tradition of assisting others, 14 FES members conducted a series of charitable campaigns, including the 5th Pull the Pumper on behalf of the Upper Room Food Bank, raising non-perishable food to the dollar value of just over $2,000; the Muscular Dystrophy annual boot drive, which raised $1846.58 for local clients; their 17th Christmas food drive in support of the Upper Room Food Bank in Kingston, collecting non-perishable food donations worth $5,770.58; the Movember campaign for prostate cancer, which raised $140; and held a 50/ 50 draw at the Lions' Valley Drive-in, which collected $193 for the food bank.

Butler’s 24 years marked

Transportation and Electrical and Mechanical Engineering (TEME) Squadron, celebrated the retirement of Corporal David Butler March 31, after 24 years of service. During his time with the Canadian Armed Forces, he participated in a wide range of exercises and operations, including deployments to Velika Kladusa, Bosnia; CFS Alert, Kandahar, Afghanistan; Operation Podium in Vancouver and El Gorah, Egypt. His knowledge, skill, and professionalism will be missed, but branch peers wish him the very best in his retirement. Pictured from left are Major Andrea Keeping, TEME Engineering Officer; Lieutenant-Colonel Brian Richardson, Wing Logistics and Engineering (WLE) Officer, presenting Butler his prime minister’s letter of appreciation; Butler, Master Warrant Officer Kevin Hickey, TEME Warrant Officer; and Chief Warrant Officer Bill Hinchey, Wing Logistics and Engineering Branch Chief Warrant Officer.

Optimizing maintenance of vehicles, equipment critical to success

Margot MacPherson Brewer
(with files from Lynn Capuano)

In the heavy equipment maintenance hangar at Garrison Edmonton, Private Naomi Timmons gets up from her work stool by a Heavy Logistics Vehicle Wheeled (HLVW) wheel base and heads off in search of parts.

She returns about 15 minutes later carrying a sealed plastic bag with 10 round metal shims. “They are OEM (original equipment manufacturer), and they were right here!” she says.

If you are a vehicle technician in the Canadian Armed Forces (CAF) or Canadian Army (CA) whose job it is to keep the vehicles and equipment in military fleets operational every day, waiting for parts to arrive can add a significant amount of time to your schedule.

Efficient workshop layout and design, workflow, availability of parts and training necessary for personnel to become qualified and authorized to perform maintenance tasks are important not only in the garrison, but also when soldiers are in the field.

KPMG has been retained to conduct a CAF-wide analysis of maintenance execution in land, naval and air maintenance facilities; and began in the 3rd Canadian Division vehicle maintenance hangar in early February as part of Defence Renewal initiatives.

“We want to increase the time techs spend actually working on equipment, and seek a balance between doing corrective maintenance and preventative maintenance,” says Major Chris Wood, Army G4 Desk Officer in charge of the Land Maintenance Execution portion of KPMG’s work. “We are going to the maintainers on the ground to seek their input because we believe they already have the solutions.”

Next, the KPMG team will travel to Halifax and Greenwood to look at maintenance execution in the Navy and Air Force, respectively. In the coming months, KPMG personnel from the maintenance execution initiative will visit a number of other CAF maintenance facilities across the country. Its report and will be ready in the summer.

Jean-François Séguin spent 20 years as a Navy engineer and is the KPMG lead conducting the review.

“I can tell you that maintainers have a lot to say about their jobs. They know what their problems are and how those problems impact their wrench time,” says Séguin. “They already have a lot of the answers, and our job is to listen to them and take those answers directly to leadership.”

Sergeant Steve Rolleston, Contracts NCO, 1 Service Battalion, Edmonton; oversees maintenance contracts and spent the better part of a morning talking with KPMG.

“Truthfully, talking to the consultants was like getting a Private Brenen Greenland, a maintainer from 1 Service Battalion, works on a vehicle during the KPMG team personnel visit to Edmonton earlier this winter.

Master Corporal M. Ferguson

monkey off my back,” says Rolleston. “I was able to talk to them openly about some of the problems that slow us down. I would like to see KPMG make recommendations that make it a little easier to do our jobs. It could make a huge impact.”

CAPS acknowledges wonderful gift

Anna Clark,
Companion Animal Protection Society

Companion Animal Protection Society member and past adopter Annette Lewis recently passed away, remembering CAPS with an ongoing gift in her will to continue volunteers' work with homeless and abandoned animals in Annapolis County.

In January, the executors of Lewis' estate presented CAPS with a cheque for $20,000, with the news Lewis wished CAPS to receive this same amount annually for the next 21 years. If, at the end of that time, CAPS still exists as an animal care/ rescue organization, the remainder of her estate, whatever that may be, will come to CAPS. This is an amazing gift, and all CAPS friends are grateful to this gentle, kind woman.

Last year, CAPS' expenses for the many animals passing through or staying in long term care exceeded $90,000.
Along with Lewis' generous annuity, CAPS continues to depend on dedicated volunteers, friends and financial supporters who know and value volunteers' work. Donations and never-ending fundraising are crucial to operations and continuance as a volunteer animal rescue organization.

Thank you to all supporters of CAPS' work over the past 10 years. Each gift of support, large or small, is so appreciated and makes society work possible. Together, we can continue to bring hope, comfort, security and a second chance at a happy life for countless orphaned or abandoned companion animals.

Fun By The Numbers
Here's How It Works: Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

April 19 - April 25

ARIES - Mar 21/Apr 20
Aries, your imagination is running wild, and that can be a good thing. You are full of inspiration and fun ideas this week, which only makes you more charming.

TAURUS - Apr 21/May 21
Taurus, you may need to open new lines of communication to complete an important project this week. Don't be afraid to engage others as your deadline nears.

GEMINI - May 22/Jun 21
Gemini, this week is a great time to put plans you have been keeping private in motion. Enjoy this exciting time and don't hesitate to share your excitement with others.

CANCER - Jun 22/Jul 22
Cancer, your love of competition comes to the forefront this week. This competitive spirit may open new doors for you. Make the most of these opportunities.

LEO - Jul 23/Aug 23
Leo, use this week as a time to conduct some personal inventory. Opportunity awaits around the corner, and your work this week will help you make the most of this new development.

VIRGO - Aug 24/Sept 22
Virgo, make this week all about spending time with your significant other. Plan a date night or sit and snuggle. Enjoy every moment you get to spend together.

LIBRA - Sept 23/Oct 23
Libra, your responsibilities beckon this week. You enjoy being responsible, so don't sweat it when you must make some decisions. Be confident that you will make the right calls.

SCORPIO - Oct 24/Nov 22
Scorpio, you are ready to embrace the great outdoors and all it has to offer. You never know what adventure awaits you, but you know one is on the horizon.

SAGITTARIUS - Nov 23/Dec 21
Sagittarius, you have a lot of energy this week. Put that bounce in your step to good use by fixing up something around the house or beginning a new fitness regimen.

CAPRICORN - Dec 22/Jan 20
Your words will carry significant weight this week, Capricorn. With that realization comes much responsibility. Make sure you wield your influence accordingly.

AQUARIUS - Jan 21/Feb 18
Aquarius, a financial windfall might be headed your way in the weeks to come. Allow yourself some time to splurge, but do your best to save some money as well.

PISCES - Feb 19/Mar 20
Bold action is awarded this week, Pisces. You are one of the few people in your circle willing to take a few chances, and that will pay off soon.
