Military life can be uniquely demanding - for all members of the family. Those who serve in the Canadian Armed Forces face risks and make sacrifice, and this can be particularly hard on their children and spouses. Moving frequently means new schools and communities, and making new friends. Parents may be called away without notice, leading to weeks or months of worry until they are back safe at home. When someone wears the together as one community in uniform, their whole family serves

Ceux qui servent dans les Forces armées canadiennes courent des risques et font des sacrifices, ce qui peut être particulièrement difficile pour leurs enfants et leurs conjoints. Les déménagements fréquents sont synonymes de nouvelles écoles et de nouvelles communautés, et il faut se faire de nouveaux amis. Les parents peuvent être appelés au loin sans préavis, ce qui entraîne des semaines ou des mois d'inquiétude jusqu'à ce qu'ils soient de retour en sécurité à la maison. Birthday milestone opportunity to return to 405 Squadron

Master Warrant Officer (retired) Herb Townsend returned to 14 Wing Greenwood March 21, marking another birthday milestone with a visit to his former 405 Squadron.

Townsend, arriving at the base as part of his 90th birthday celebrations, was toured by 405 Squadron members through squadron space and aboard the CP140 Aurora inside the hangar, then treated with cake and a certificate, presented by 405 (Long Range Patrol) Squadron

Commanding Officer Lieutenant-Colonel Dan Arsenault.

Townsend, born in Lockeport, Nova Scotia, originally joined the Army in 1958 as a military policeman. Several years later, he remustered to administration and was posted to Petawawa in 1967. Two years later, he again re-mustered to AESOP and subsequently posted to 880 Squadron flying Trackers. 1976 saw him posted to 405 Squadron in Greenwood, followed by three vears in recruit school in Cornwallis. He returned to 405 Squadron from 1980 to 1990, when he retired March 20, 1991, after 30 years of combined service - and nine varying ranks.

During retirement, Townsend ran a Christian bookstore and, at age 70. he become an ordained minister, preaching full time until he turned 80. He continues to preach and conduct services part-time and when required. He lives in Meadowvale. >>

Fun By The Numbers

Here's How It Works: Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row column and hox. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!
